HOLLAND, BELGIUM FIERCELY RESISTING GERMAN INVASION

Low Country Funds Frozen By Roosevelt

President Ties Up Dutch, Belgian Wealth In United States to Prevent Nazi Seizure; Calls Conference.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—As President Roosevelt today assembled an extraordinary White House conference on Germany's latest military thrust, the Netherlands government was understood to have inquired what steps the United States would take in the event of an invasion of the Dutch East Indies.

BULLETIN

TOKYO—(INS)—A rumor spread in Tokyo tonight that the Japanese fleet is en route to the Dutch East Indies. Officials refused to comment. The foreign office would not discuss the possible effects of the German invasion of Holland on the Dutch East Indies.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt "froze" all Dutch and Belgian wealth in the United States today to prevent its seizure by the Germans.

After consultation with financial officials who had been routed out of bed, the president signed at about 8 a. m. an executive order extending the freezing decree on Danish and Norwegian assets to the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

The emergency order, rushed through before the country's financial markets opened for the day, was the first precautionary step taken to cope with the new war situation which had arisen overnight.

Other steps were expected to follow with dispatch, but they awaited an extraordinary conference which

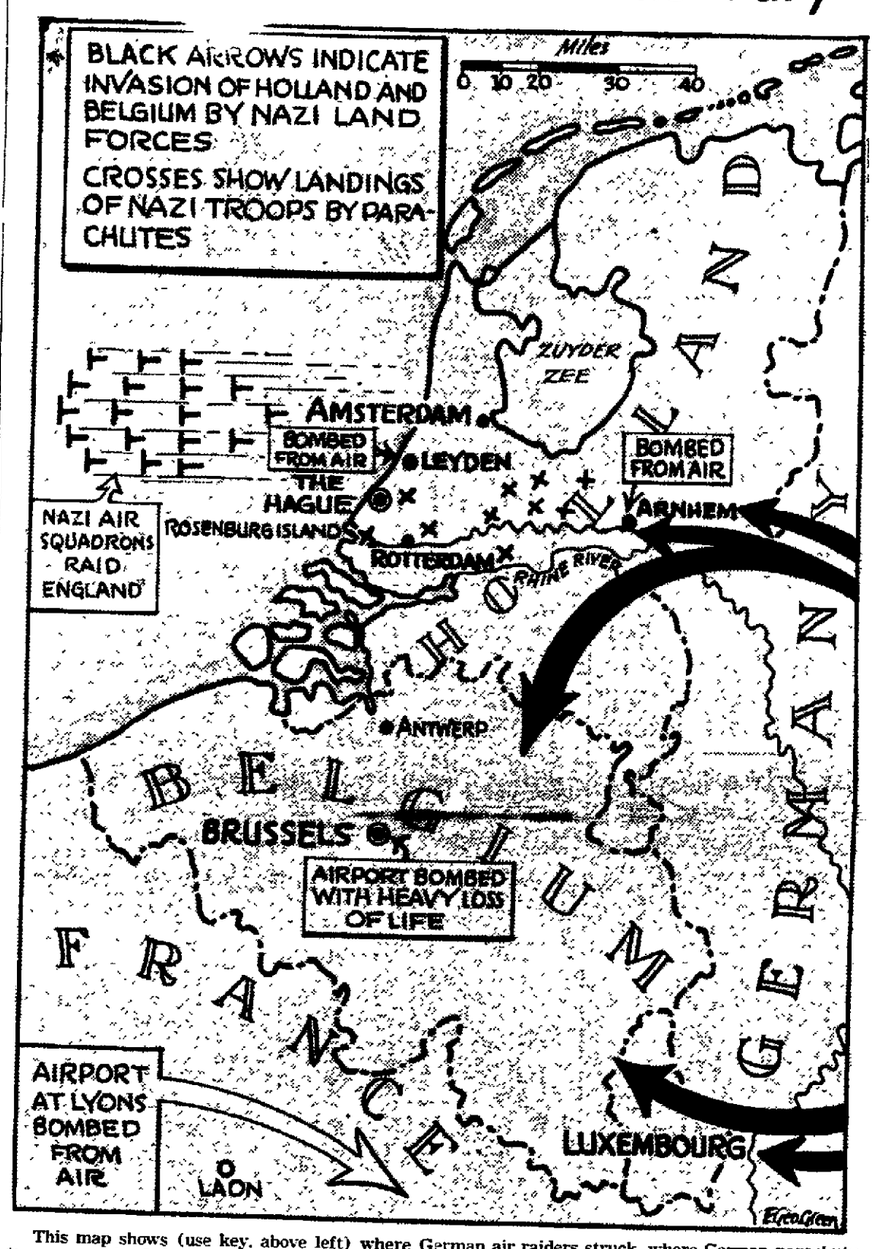
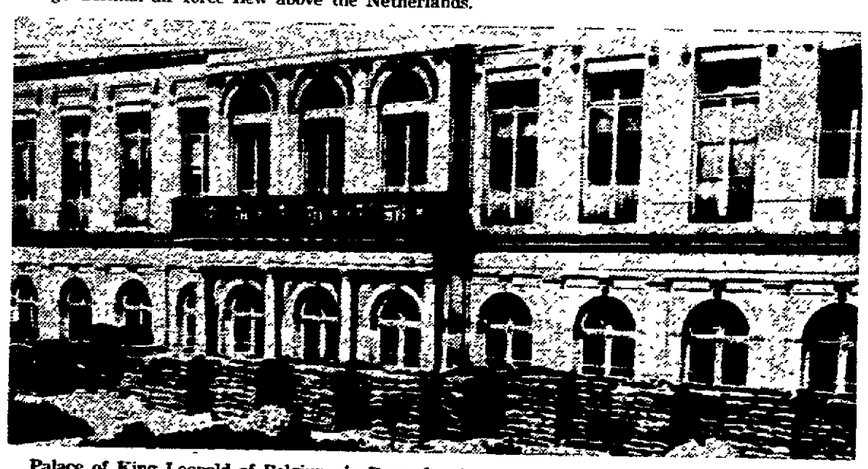
War Strikes In All Its Fury



This map shows (use key, above left) where German air raiders struck, where German parachute troops were landed and where German ground forces crossed borders in their simultaneous triple attack on three European neutrals—Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg. The blitzkrieg began when a huge German air force flew above the Netherlands.



Palace of King Leopold of Belgium, in Brussels, shown above, sandbagged as protection against air raids, was imperiled when a German air force bombed Brussels' airport. Many persons were killed and wounded in the air attacks on the Belgian capital's air field.

This is an aerial view of the center section of Lyons, important manufacturing city in southeastern France, which was the goal of the first German air attack against an important French land, Belgium and Luxembourg.

SIDELINER: Italy Holding Off, Awaiting War 'Events'

(By International News Service)

ROME—Italy, as a great European power, is naturally directly concerned over extension of the war in Europe but is uninterested in claims and counter-claims regarding responsibility, it was authoritatively stated in Rome today.

So far as Italy's policies and conduct are concerned, a spokesman said:

"It is too early to say. We must await events."

Extension of the war to Holland and Belgium constitutes "the real start of war in the west, hence the effective beginning of the European conflict," he said.

Diplomatic circles in Rome did not disguise their anxiety but felt there was no cause for immediate alarm regarding Italy.

Military circles believe that much depends upon the course of the conflict in the next few days, particularly as it discloses the power and speed of the French military machine.

Rome newspapers issued extra editions to announce the momentous new developments under the headline "the Reich assumes protection of the neutrailty of Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg."

Intensive diplomatic activity was under way in Rome. The British, Norwegian, Dutch and Belgian envoys were in constant contact.

The German, Belgian and Dutch representatives formally advised the Italian government of the new situation.

PROTECTION: Hitler Explains Invasion of Neutral Countries

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Germany undertook to place Holland and Belgium under her "protection" today as Adolf Hitler notified German troops on the western front that "the hour of decisive combat for the future of the German nation is now at hand."

Soon after Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop had said at a press conference that German troops had been ordered to take over the "low countries" to thwart an Allied plan to launch an "immediate attack" on Germany's Ruhr valley, Hitler issued a proclamation to the troops.

He said that Britain and France had been trying for 300 years to keep Germany powerless and that now they planned to carve Germany into small states. He said the Allies had rejected his peace offers and that although "the German people have no hate or enmity for the English or French people, the paramount question is whether the German people shall live or be submerged."

He said Germany had nipped in the bud an Allied flank attack in the north (in Norway) and that the Allies then, under cover of a huge diversion maneuver in southeast Europe, had prepared to attack the Ruhr through Holland and Belgium.

"Soldiers of the west front," Hitler said, "the hour for you

Allied Soldiers Advance to Meet New Nazi Attack

CHAMBERLAIN OUT, CHURCHILL NEW PREMIER

'National Unity' Government To Be Formed to Combat Newest Nazi Threats.

(By United Press)

LONDON—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain resigned tonight.

Winston Churchill agreed to form a new cabinet.

The new government—it was agreed without exception—shall be one of national unity in which Labor, Liberals and Conservatives alike join to meet the threat of the dread German blitzkrieg.

The change of government was being accomplished in record breaking speed for the ordinarily slow, and traditionally form-bound British parliamentary system.

Only this morning it generally was believed that despite the unleashing of the German attack on the low countries and the imminent threat to the British Isles that it would be 10 days or a fortnight before a new government might be formed.

But sudden conferences were held. The Labor party agreed to go into the government if Chamberlain quit and within a few hours the preliminaries which will give Britain a new virile war leader had been accomplished.

Quick Action.

At three minutes before 6 p. m. Chamberlain appeared at Buckingham palace and at 6:25 p. m. he emerged to be followed immediately by Churchill. It now was evident that the change had been made — Chamberlain out, Churchill in.

It is the first time in a career devoted to politics—most of it in the spotlight—that Churchill has headed a new government.

Technically, he is not yet head of a government but none in London tonight doubted that he would be able to enlist the necessary support to achieve a cabinet of national unity.

Had not this been evident, it was regarded as certain that Chamberlain would have deferred his resignation.

What will be the make up of the new government was not yet known but it was expected to include David Lloyd George, Britain's war prime minister and veteran Liberal.

Lloyd George, it was said, doubtless will become a minister without portfolio. Several laborites will enter the cabinet, it was agreed, but which members of the party they will be and what their posts will be were not immediately certain.

For the time being—until all formalities are out of the way—the present ministers will remain at their posts. That is to insure continuity of office and that the country is not without responsible ministers in case of strokes from the German war machine.

The resignation of Chamberlain came at the end of a bitter, lengthy day for the gray, grave-faced premier who started life as a Birmingham hardware merchant. It came after bitter days of criticism such as Chamberlain never had experienced.

In addition to Lloyd George, the new cabinet members are expected to include Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal leader; Maj. Clement Atlee, and Herbert Morrison, Laborites.

Hitler's Planes Bomb Swiss, Belgian, Dutch, French and English Towns In Aerial Blitzkrieg Over Wide-Spread Front.

BULLETIN

BRUSSELS—(AP)—The German land forces have been stopped within a few hundred yards of the frontier after entering Belgium as part of Adolf Hitler's blitzkrieg against the low countries, the foreign ministry announced today.

BULLETIN

AMSTERDAM—(INS)—In a series of strong counter-attacks, Dutch forces on the Netherlands frontier halted the advance of Nazi Germany's invading army this afternoon. Holland's army maintained virtually all its positions on the Maas (Meuse) and Yssel rivers.

BULLETIN

ROTTERDAM—(AP)—German troops occupied Waalhaven airport here today after destroying the flying field and hangars in a heavy bombardment.

(By United Press)

AMSTERDAM — Germany invaded Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg in a lightning blow by land, air and sea forces under the personal direction of Adolf Hitler today, but the low countries fought back with support of Great Britain and France.

Major fighting developed along the Dutch and Belgian frontiers and coastline.

Allied mechanized troops were reported advancing rapidly through Belgium to meet the Germans driving forward over a "wide front" in the northwest in an effort to win new bases for possible aerial blitzkrieg on England.

(A German wireless broadcast claimed that German troops had occupied The Hague, capital of the Netherlands.)

Nazi airplanes roamed a vast part of western Europe, bombing Dutch, Belgian and French airports and communications centers including big channel ports. Four bombs were dropped on an English

HELP: French Move Quickly To Meet Invasion of Nazis

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Aviation authorities said today that the British and French governments have ordered 2,000 or more additional American-made warplanes in the last few days.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—A British-French army was authoritatively reported moving rapidly across the Belgian border today to meet German legions which had entered from the east and a Paris military spokesman said the "most gigantic battle of all time" may be near at hand.

The spokesman said that the Germans must have one of two military purposes in mind.

Pointing out it was difficult at the moment to determine the exact Nazi objectives, the spokesman said they may be trying:

1. An operation to gain control of a long strip of coastline facing England, or

2. "A vast strategical movement of invasion comparable to and infinitely larger than that carried out by the German troops across Belgium in 1914."

In the latter case, he said, "we are at the beginning of the most gigantic battle of all time."

The Belgium army was reported by Havas, French new agency, to be busy mopping up small detachments of German parachutists who landed on Belgium territory.

Several German planes were shot down from the numerous squadrons which flew over Belgium.

The war department spokesman said there was as yet no precise information in Paris of the exact

EX-MANSFIELD MAN'S BOOK IN NEW RELEASES

Gass Recollects Early Days in City in 'Family Crisis' Now at Library.

Among the new non-fiction books at the Mansfield Public library this week is one of Sherlock Bronson Gass, who lived in Mansfield as a boy.

In his book, "Family Crisis" which deals with courageous living by one family during the panic of 1893 and hardships following, Gass recollects his early days in Mansfield.

A recent fiction book, added to the library shelves, is by Evelyn Bolster. It tells the story of three lively children, their scrapes and experiences. Another southern war story is one by Harry Harrison Kroll. It has a plantation in Mississippi as its setting.

New Fiction Books.

MORNING SHOWS THE DAY by Evelyn Bolster is a lively tale of the three Colwell children whose mother was dead and whose father was a busy man. They got into all sorts of scrapes, usually saving themselves by their own wits or fists. The author's family was in a similar position, so she writes with understanding of all the fun and occasional loneliness that Ted and Ellen and Susie experienced.

THE KEEPERS OF THE HOUSE by Harry Harrison Kroll is the story of a plantation in Mississippi during the Civil war. The novel is dominated by Lett Capers, natural son of the master and the overseer's wife. Always bearing a grudge this young man brought only trouble to the house that reared him.

THE PROVINCIAL LADY IN WARTIME by Edna De La Pasture is an amusing chronicle of the events—momentous and trifling—that make up the life of an average British citizen during the crisis of the present war.

Other fiction:

GREEK TRAGEDY by Cole & Cole.

THE CUSTOMER IS ALWAYS RIGHT, Davis.

UNCLE LANCY FOR PRESIDENT, Hueston.

On the Non-Fiction List.

SIEGE by Julien Bryan contains photographs and a dramatic narrative of the author's personal experience during the bombing of Warsaw last September. Arriving two days after the government officials had left the city, Mr. Bryan remained to make a photographic record of the conditions of a city during modern warfare. His pictures are mostly of people, the civilians who had no means of escape and struggled for existence under constant threat of death, their homes and often their families destroyed by bombs in Hitler's humane warfare. Maurice Hindus' introduction reminds us that such scenes occurred in Spain, in China, and may occur anywhere under modern warfare.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS by David L. Cohn is a history of American morals and manners as seen through the Sears, Roebuck catalogs, 1905 to the present. Citing listings of household goods and objects of all sorts which have appeared in Sears' catalogs, Mr. Cohn explains the social implications involved in the sale of these articles. He predicts that as our population changes from being predominantly young to become predominantly old, the catalogs will reflect this by advertising objects suited more to comfort than to style.

FAMILY CRISIS by Sherlock Bronson Gass is a record of courageous living by one family hard hit during the panic of 1893 and the lean years following. Purchasing and operating a steam laundry in Dayton gave them many exciting and trying experiences. The author lived in Mansfield as a boy and he mentions various childhood recollections of this city.

Pandas Hand Mansfield Fourth Defeat

THE Mansfield Braves dropped their fourth straight Ohio State league contest last night—but Manager Dewey Stover had one consolation—for the first time this season the starting pitcher lasted nine innings.

* * *

Mansfield's latest defeat was inflicted by the Pandas at Lima by a 5 to 2 count, and that loss dropped the club into a tie with Fremont for fourth place in the championship race.

* * *

Lima tallied its five markers in the first three frames, but from there on in Laurila was complete master of the situation. Not once in the last five frames did the Pandas threaten seriously.

Beals

Tonight the Braves entertain Lima at 8:15 and Stover may send Lloyd Joyce, right hander to the hill in an effort to break the losing streak. Joyce, a 23-year-old veteran, will be making his first start. He saw service against Tiffin in a relief role. The contest at the Fairground tonight will mark the first of a series of "ladies" nights.

Probably one of the most encouraging things in the recent slump has been the spectacular hitting of Howard Beals, shortstop. Against Lima last night he cracked out a pair of doubles which figured prominently in the scoring. In only one contest—at Tiffin Sunday—did he fail to secure at least one hit. He hit the only homers (two) collected by the club this season.

The Pandas held a 4-0 lead before Mansfield was able to dent the plate. The Braves scored once in the third and tallied their second marker in the eighth. Preston Robertson, Lima moundsman, was complete master of the Mansfielders the rest of the time.

Laurita.

Lloyd Graham, who as signed by the Braves yesterday, made his first appearance in the lineup last night, replacing Stover in right field in the seventh inning.

Only 21 Men Face Tinkey Lumber Hurler In 16-0 Triumph.

STUB WINEBRENNER of the Tinkey Lumber company team today finds himself in softball's Hall of Fame.

* * *

Pitching for the Lumbers at North Lake park last night, Winebrenner chalked up a no-hit, no-run, 16 to 0, victory over the Isaly Dairy team. It is the first no-hit, no-run game of the season. Dale McKinley, however, hurled a no-hitter for the Alta Lumbers earlier this spring.

* * *

Winebrenner came near registering a perfect game. He walked two men while whiffing 12. Only 21 men faced him in the seven-inning game.

While Stub was silencing the Isaly bats, his teammates were teeing off against Harner for 15 hits including two home runs, a triple and a pair of doubles.

* * *

Piling up a commanding lead with a six-run splurge in the first frame, the Tinkey club was never in trouble. The Lumbers added four in the second and then coasted through.

* * *

Curry was the hitting star for the Lumbers as he poled out a home run and two singles. Mike Horvath was the other Lumber player to collect a homer. John Horvath, Matasavage and Hess contributed three hits apiece to the attack.

Bowman Street Wins Grade School Relays

By GEORGE SATTLER

OUT-POINTING eight other grade school track teams, the Bowman street cinder eaters found themselves in possession of the 1940 City Grade School city crown, following the annual relays at Stadium field yesterday.

* * *

Bowman piled up 22 3-5 points, while Hedges, their nearest rival, finished second with 16 1-5 markers.

* * *

Western took third with 11 1-3 tallies, Bushnell fourth with 8 1-3, Carpenter fifth with 7 5-6, West Fifth sixth with 7½, and Newman seventh with 2 1-5. Prospect and Brinkerhoff netted zeros to tie for eighth place.

Surprise performance of the meet was turned in by Cooke of Western, who paced off the 50-yard dash in 6:7 seconds, barely nosing out Frazier and Majors of Bowman. Grade schoolers generally run this event in seven seconds or more, and few junior high school tracksters have turned in better time for the dash this year.

Also outstanding were Schmidt of Bowman and McBride and Burton of West Fifth. Schmidt clicked off the 60-yard low hurdles in 8.5 seconds, while McBride and Burton scored impressive wins in the high jump and pole vault respectively.

* * *

McBride topped the bamboo at five feet and Burton poled his way over the cross-bar at seven feet, six inches. Both marks are considered exceptional for boys of grade school age.

* * *

The 440 yard relay, however, furnished the biggest thrill for the large crowd of youngsters, who jammed into Stadium field

Bob Feller Is Rapping Again At No-Hit Door

Youthful Indian Ace Was Barely Sidetracked as He Shuts Out New York.

(By Associated Press)

BOB FELLER is just the kind of a feller who's liable to keep rapping at that no-hit door long enough for it to open again.

* * * * *

He barely was sidetracked yesterday as he shut out the New York Yankees for Cleveland, 4-0, on three hits. He didn't give up a safety until the seventh inning, when with one out Joe DiMaggio finally banged a single off Shortstop Lou Boudreau's glove.

* * * * *

There were other good pitching shows yesterday. One of the best was Bucky Walters' five-hit job on the Boston Bees in the course of a 4-1 victory for the Cincinnati Reds.

Tex Carleton, making his first start since hurling a no-hitter April 30, locked in a dramatic duel with Larry French that went to ten innings before the Brooklyn Dodgers broke through for a 4-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The horrible bottom in pitching was reached at Pittsburgh as the Pirates lost their ninth consecutive game by a 17-6 score to the New York Giants. Frenzied Frankie Frisch used five flingers who gave up 15 hits, ten bases on balls and hit three batsmen. The rest of the Pirates did their duty by making seven errors.

A St. Louis rookie, Ernie White, came through with a good relief chore for the Cardinals, pitching seven scoreless innings as the Red Birds overpowered the Phillies 8-4.

The Detroit Tigers came from behind to tie their game with the Boston Red Sox at five all in the seventh and then Herb Hash shut them out until the tenth when Johnny Peacock singled with the bases loaded for a 6-5 verdict.

* * * * *

Dutch Leonard, a 20-game winner of a year ago who has had a tough time this spring, triumphed over the hapless Chicago White Sox 8-4 with the help of some heavy hitting by his Washington teammates.

* * * * *

Bob Harris scattered seven hits and the Browns took advantage of the wildness of Johnny Babich, previously unbeaten, to crack down on the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-2.

Experts Said Reds Wouldn't Survive World Series Beating

By JOHN FRYE

CINCINNATI — (AP) — It was a bright Indian summer day when the experts put their heads together and solemnly agreed, "the Reds'll never recover from this."

* * *

The New York Yankees, unconquerable and serene, had just battered Cincinnati's ball club into the dust and there were some things a man or a team just couldn't survive.

* * *

But on this spring day six months later the tables are turned. It may be a long time before another October and it may be two different leagues and Brooklyn may beat the top, but the fact remains that the Reds are still playing championship ball just as if there'd never been any World series. The Yankees are, for the moment at least, a second hand soap bubble.

Some say it's luck that's keeping the Reds going but the figures call it pitching and fielding. Bucky Walters' five-hit, 4 to 1 victory over the Boston Bees yesterday was the fifth game in which some Red pitcher almost had a shutout.

In six games the other teams got but two runs apiece.

* * *

In 11 of the Reds' 16 games the starting pitchers have finished. The opposition, with 44 runs, has averaged 2.75 runs a game, and with 110 hits, 6.875 a day.

* * *

As for the fielding, yesterday's was the Reds' eighth straight errorless game and they have made only seven bobbles this season.

N.C.O. League Season Opens

Galion, Mansfield to Play Baseball Inaugural.

GALION—Galion high school baseball season will open the N. C. O. baseball league Wednesday, May 22, when the Galion team meets the Mansfield Tygers on the Galion diamond, it was announced today, following the N. C. O. league meeting held here Wednesday.

* * *

Six teams have already entered the league to date, while two more are considering filing applications. Teams represented so far are as follows: Galion, Mansfield, Marion, Marysville, Harpster and Ontario.

* * *

Plans for a parade, band concert and pyrotechnic displays are already under way for the opener here with Mansfield, Arthur Manzer, baseball director said today.

A schedule for N. C. O. play was drawn up Tuesday by league officials.

Oilers Hold Lead, Defeat Tiffin, 6-4

FINDLAY —(AP)— The Findlay Oilers take their role as defending champions of the Ohio State baseball league seriously.

* * *

The Oilers chalked up their sixth straight victory, against no defeats, at the hands of Tiffin last night—and did it the hard way, entering their half of the fourth inning four runs behind. The score was 6 to 4.

* * *

Fostoria finally broke into the win column with a 4 to 3 victory over Fremont, and Lima moved into second place with a 5 to 2 defeat of Mansfield.

Streaks Ready For Garfield

Look Forward to Meeting With Confidence.

Bolstered by their victory over the Sandusky Blue Streaks Wednesday, the Mansfield Red Streaks look forward to their meeting with Akron Garfield tomorrow with more confidence than they have mustered all season.

* * *

Coach Harry Mehock, although he isn't talking, expects his boys to turn in a credible performance against the highly-touted Akron team. Mehock is banking most of his hopes on the hurdling and relay events.

* * *

Fred Atwater, Streaks hurdler, won easily from the Sandusky competition Wednesday, while the Streaks scored wins in both relay events. Mehock, however, is a bit worried over the outcome of the dash division.

Bob Yarman, who won the mile in both the Sandusky and Newark meets, should come home with at least a second place to his credit, if not a first.

'Preakness Fever' Catches at Pimlico

BALTIMORE — (AP) — That "Preakness fever" around Pimlico racetrack was due to notch up a point or two in temperature with this morning's deadline for entries in the 50th running of the $50,000-added stakes tomorrow.

* * *

It appeared likely that eight, and probably not more than nine, three-year-olds would be named to run in the classic.

* * *

To all appearances this golden jubilee running of the Preakness shaped up as a battle between Gallahadion and Bimelech, fresh from the derby and Gallahadion's

Blues Set Pace In Association

Win From Indianapolis, 5-3, Yesterday.

(By Associated Press)

Kansas City's defending champions, playing the role of opportunists, are setting the American Association pace once more.

* * *

The Blues, who beat out Minneapolis for the 1939 title, got only five hits off three Indianapolis pitchers yesterday but won 5 to 3.

* * *

In contrast, Minneapolis got 12 hits and had nine walks thrown in, but lost to Columbus, 5 to 3 in 12 innings.

George Lacy's home run with two mates on brought Louisville from behind in the ninth and gave the Colonels a 5 to 4 decision over Milwaukee.

In the other game, Toledo defeated St. Paul, 6 to 3.

Indians Close Successful Eastern Trip

Chalk Up Five Triumphs in Eight Starts.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The Indians came home in high spirits today, with the record of their first eastern trip showing five victories and three defeats.

* * *

The team will be here the rest of the month, except for a three-game series in St. Louis on the 24th, 25th and 26th. Trailing the leading Boston club by only a game and a half, the Redskins have high hopes of regaining first place during the long home stand.

* * *

Al Milnar was the nominee to face the Browns today in the opener of a three-game series, with Vernon Kennedy due for the invaders.

Bob Feller completed the humiliation of the once-haughty Yankees yesterday in New York as he shut them out with three hits to win, 4 to 0. The Indians, meanwhile, pounded Monte Pearson for 10 hits, including doubles by Hal Trosky, Ben Chapman and Rollie Hemsley.

In his fourth victory, Feller held the Yankees hitless until one man was out in the seventh. Joe DiMaggio got an infield single then. Joe Gordon singled in the eighth and Charles Keller in the ninth.

* * *

Cleveland scored a run in the second on a walk to Heath, Ken Keltner's single and Hemsley's double, and added the other three runs in the fifth on a walk to Roy Weatherly, doubles by Chapman and Trosky and another single by Keltner.

* * *

The defeat was the sixth straight for the Yankees, equaling the champion's longest losing streak in 10 years.

In Memoriam

In memory of Louis Maglott, Husband and Father who passed away one year ago today.
Passed on, beyond our mortal vision
But now the thought is robbed of gloom
Within the Father's many mansions
Still dwelling in another room

The one whose going left us lonely,
Is scaling heights undreamed of yore,
And guided only Love's unfolding,
Has gone upstairs and shut the door.

THEATERS

West (ern) Romance.

"My Little Chickadee" unites the unique talents of Mae West and W. C. Fields in one slap-stick comedy, which is booked for the Madison tomorrow and the first of the week. The curvaceous blond charmer and the pulpnosed comedian engage in a one-sided romance in a wild western town but nothing much comes of it except a lot of new gags and wise cracks. Other males who fall beneath the spell of the charmer are Dick Foran, Joseph Calleia and Donald Meek.

Rogers In Dramatic Role.

"Primrose Path," the startlingly frank story of a girl who tried to lift herself up out of her environment, and which has had rough going with various state censor boards, will be the Ohio attraction tomorrow, through Tuesday. Ginger Rogers plays the girl whose grandmother and mother before her had followed the 'oldest profession," and whose romance with Joel McCrea is almost wrecked because of it.

"Young Buffalo Bill"

Roy Rogers, young White Hope of the Republic studios, is the latest movie hero to become Buffalo Bill in a Western based on the early life of the Indian Scout The story opens at the time William Cody, as a government scout, is asigned to work in New Mexico establishing land borders A pretty Spanish girl played by Pauline Moore, adds romance "The Big Guy" with Jackie Cooper and Victor McLaglen, provides the second attraction at the Ritz

Soldiers on Skiis.

Cattle-rustlers terrorizing the border ranches, killing and raiding, running stolen beeves across the line into Mexico, and pitted against them the fastest "gun" of the West—this is the West as it is depicted in "Bullet Code," a George O'Brien film at the Majestic. Capitalizing on recent war stories, "Ski Patrol" is a dramatic thriller of soldiers who travel on skiis.

A Gun and A Gal.

With a blazing six-gun in his hand and a beautiful girl in his arms, George O'Brien rides through a fast series of adventures in "The Border Patrolman," at the Park.

Low Countries Resist Invasion by Germany

Allied Mechanized Troops Advance to Meet Nazi Attack on Wide Front; Aerial Blitzkrieg Launched.

town near Canterbury. German and French planes battled over Switzerland and the Nazis dropped 17 bombs on a Swiss railroad near Basle.

Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg appealed to the Allied powers for assistance after 59-year-old Queen Wilhelmina—who celebrated this week the longest reign in the Dutch dynasty—had appealed to the people to resist the invaders and King Leopold of the Belgians, had followed the World war example of his father and taken command of the armed forces of his country.

The Luxembourg government crossed the frontier into Belgium, carrying the archives and national treasury.

German airplanes and parachute troops led the attack ordered by Hitler on the grounds that the Allied powers had planned an immediate invasion of the low countries and that Germany was forced to move quickly—as in the occupation of Denmark and Norway.

German airplanes—opposed by British and French craft at almost every turn in contrast to the Polish and Norwegian campaigns— strafed Dutch troop concentrations and bombed communications centers in the low countries generally, including The Hague airport and the port of Antwerp.

The Berlin radio appealed to the populations of the low countries—especially the Belgian Flemish people—not to resist, but a state of war already had been declared by both governments.

The Berlin radio broadcast pleas in French and Flemish to "Our dear comrades" urging the people to remember the "horrors of 1914" and warning that "there are more horrors to come."

"Put down your arms," the broadcaster said. "The Germans only want to cross Belgium."

The German radio repeatedly denied as "British propaganda" reports that Nazi parachute troops dressed as British or Dutch soldiers had landed in Holland.

British sources said that the British air attache at The Hague was "almost killed" by bombs which fell near the Dutch foreign office this morning, but German official statements emphasized that "no wonder persons are wounded by anti-aircraft gun splinters if they run into the streets instead of the air raid shelters."

Among the points reported bombed in the first phase of fighting were: air ports or other communications points at Amsterdam, and The Hague in Holland; Brussels and Antwerp in Belgium; Lyons, Calais, Dunkirk and Lille in France; a point near Basle in Switzerland; and the town of Chilton, near Canterbury, in England. In addition many small towns of military importance were bombed.

In Holland and Britain drastic action was taken by authorities to suppress "fifth column" or "Trojan horse" activities that might aid the German operations from the inside. The British war office announced that all vulnerable points on the British Isles had been manned by sentries with orders to shoot anyone who failed to answer a challenge.

Germany's invasion was heralded by the flight of great fleets of bombing planes over the low countries in the early hours of the morning.

With dawn parachutists troops began dropping down at key points all over, and troops landed by seaplanes in the river Maas, just inside the Holland border, paddled ashore in rubber boats to take up positions on the western bank.

At 6 a. m. long after the invasion of Holland, the German minister, Julius Von Zech Sonst Vonsburkersroda, handed to Dr. E. N. Van Kleffens, Dutch foreign minister, the German government's first declaration of its attack.

"We announce that an immense German force has been put into action. Any resistance is senseless. Germany guarantees that if no resistance is offered Holland will retain her possessions in Europe and overseas. If resistance is offered there is danger of the complete destruction of the country and the state's organization.

"We therefore urgently advise you to address an appeal to your people and military forces and establish contact with the German military command. Our reasons are: We have undeniable proofs of an immediately imminent invasion by France and Great Britain into Belgium, Luxembourg and Holland, which invasion was long prepared with the knowledge of Holland and Belgium and had for its object an attack on the Ruhr district."

To this declaration Dr. Van Kleffens replied:

"With indignation Her Majesty's government declines the supposition that she would have concluded any hostile agreement of any kind with any power whatsoever against Germany. Because of the unprecedented attack made by Germany upon the Netherlands without warning the Dutch government considers Holland at war with the German Reich."

Belgian Troops Meet Nazis In Battles on Frontier

BRUSSELS — (U.P.) — Belgium ordered general mobilization, declared a state of siege, and appealed to the Allies for aid today after a lightning German invasion.

Land fighting developed all along the frontier after a general night air attack on airports and railroad stations.

Several stations were reported afire

King Leopold went into conference with his chief ministers. (Belgian diplomats abroad said that he had already taken command of the army.)

The Brussels airport was bombed this morning. The bombing attack had been preceded by flight of big airplane squadrons over the Brussels area.

All Belgian troops had been recalled from leave and Belgian airplanes had been fighting German planes throughout the morning.

(Radio Brussels reports heard in Amsterdam said the Belgian parliament had met in urgent session and that fierce fighting was in progress between Belgian and German troops in the Aachen sector.)

German parachutist troops were reported to have landed in force in eastern Belgium.

It was reported that a big battle was developing on the frontier.

Twelve persons were known dead in the bombing of Brussels airport.

Civilians Killed In Air Raids on French Towns

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Heavy civilian casualties in German bombing raids on French towns and cities were reported in advices received from the British embassy in Paris today.

There were particularly heavy at Nancy, where 16 were killed and 30 injured, mostly civilians.

A raid was carried out on Paris, where there was intense anti-aircraft fire and some casualties from shrapnel. But no bombs were dropped.

Information reaching authoritative circles said that about 200 German parachutists landed at The Hague airport, wearing British uniforms. Others in Dutch uniforms landed at Dordrecht, it was said.

The airport at Calais directly across the English channel from Dover was bombed

Latest reports said the Belgian and Dutch armies were fighting vigorously.

So far as could be ascertained in London all places bombed in northern France could be considered military objectives.

"In some cases this must be done by considerably stretching the imagination," a spokesman said.

The Vatican Library was begun by Pope Nicholas V about 1450.

line of march of the Germans.

The Germans, he continued, are following the usual tactics of sending shock forces in advance, preceded by intense aerial bombardment of roads, bridges, railroads and air fields.

The bombardments, he stated, are on a vast scale in "Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg and France, those in France being notably in the eastern and northern areas."

Notes from Belgium and Luxembourg appealing for French and British aid were made public by the foreign ministry.

The Belgium note said: "The Belgium government is determined to resist the aggression with all its force."

The Luxembourg note pointed out the country was without arms and asked French aid "for the re-establishment of the independence and integrity of Luxembourg."

Premier Paul Reynaud, reporters said, was holding conferences with the idea of altering the make-up of his cabinet.

The broad French military activity came after German bombers had struck deep into France.

All indications were the Europe's war at last had broken out in its expected major proportions.

On every hand were signs that a life and death struggle between Germany and the Allied powers is at hand.

Taking advantage of a moment when both London and Paris were raked by impending cabinet crises as a result of the failure of their Norwegian campaign, the Germans struck at the neutral countries with heavy forces liberally equipped with tanks and artillery.

Hundreds of airplanes were reported to have preceded the invading German troops.

Advices reaching Paris said Luxembourg, not attempting to resist the might of German arms, was being occupied methodically this morning by German military contingents.

While the western front remained comparatively calm, raiding German airplanes were declared to have bombed numerous cities back of the line. The French officially listed Lyon, Nancy, Colmar, Pontoise and Luxeuil.

There was no report of bombings in the Paris zone.

A French spokesman called "pure inventions" the charges of German Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop that English troops had landed in the Dutch ports and that the Allies were preparing miliary occupation of Holland and Belgium.

Hitler Defends March On Neutral Countries

(By United Press)

BERLIN—Following is the text of Adolf Hitler's proclamation to the German nation:

The hour of decisive combat for the future of the German nation now is at hand.

For three centuries it has been the goal of the British and French governments to prevent every real consolidation of Europe, but above all to keep Germany weak and powerless.

To this end alone France two centuries ago declared war on Germany 31 times.

For decades, however, it also has been the goal of the British "world rulers" to prevent Germany from unity under all circumstances, to deny the reich of every possession necessary for the maintenance of a nation of 80,000,000 people.

Britain and France followed through this policy of theirs without worrying about the regime which then powered Germany. What they wanted to hit was always the German people.

Their responsible leaders today admit this quite openly. Germany is to be defeated and divided into a number of small states. Then the reich will lose its political might and therewith the possibility of securing to the German people the right of life upon earth.

On these grounds they repulsed all my peace attempts and on Sept. 3 of last year declared war. The German people have no hate or enmity toward the British and French people. Today, however, the paramount question before the German people is whether it will live or be submerged.

In a few weeks our brave soldiers overthrew the Polish opponents sent against us by Britain and France and thereby checked danger from the east. Thereupon England and France lecided to attack Germany from the north.

Now, what we for many months saw before us as a threatening danger occurred.

Britain and France are attempting, under the cover of a gigantic feint in southeastern Europe, the thrust to the Ruhr area, Oster, Holland and Belgium.

Soldiers of the western front:

Herewith, your hour has now arrived.

The battle beginning today will decide the fate of the German nation for the next 1,000 years.

Do you duty now.

The German people sends its words of blessing with you.

Adolf Hitler.

now has arrived. The battle beginning today decides the fate of the German nation for the next 1,000 years. Do your duty now! The German people, with words of blessing, is with you."

Ribbentrop said that "yesterday the Reich government learned that England and France had notified Belgium and Holland that Allied troops would land for an immediate attack on the Ruhr. The Fuehrer did not intend, to have the Ruhr ruined or occupied, therefore he decided to take both countries under his protection.

The high command issued a special report saying that on the basis of available information and air reconnaissance, it has been established that the Allied left wing now stands ready for an attack through Belgian territory, with motorized, mechanized, infantry, tank and cavalry divisions concentrated on the Belgian frontier.

It said that Belgian-Allied cooperation extended to air and sea operations and that "in the course of her preparations for war on Germany," Belgium "extensively favored Holland."

Ribbentrop said, "Germany will now speak to the French and British armies in a language they understand."

MYERS, SUPREME COURT JUDGE, EX-SECRETARY OF STATE, DIES

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — Public officials and political leaders were stunned today by the sudden and unexpected death of Supreme Court Judge George S. Myers. The widely known Cleveland jurist and former secretary of state died shortly before midnight last night in his Columbus home. He was 59.

He apparently was in good health yesterday and had attended to his court duties as usual.

Judge Myers, a Democrat, was the second public official to die in office within a few weeks. A heart attack also was responsible for the death of Secretary of State Earl Griffith in March.

Surviving the state supreme court judge is his widow, Louise.

Judge Myers was elected to the high tribunal in 1936 and would have remained in office until Dec. 31, 1942. His election to the highest state court was a climax of a long political career.

His first state office was that of state representative, from 1917 through 1920. In 1922, he ran for congress, but although he won the nomination he was defeated in the election.

In 1928, Myers ran unsuccessfully for the U. S. senate. In 1932 he was elected to his first term as secretary of state. He was re-elected in 1934.

In 1936, Myers was prominently mentioned as a gubernatorial possibility, but ran for the judicial post instead.

PLANES CLASH IN DOG-FIGHTS OVER HOLLAND

Eye-Witness Sees Five Air Battles in Few Hours; Parachutists Land.

By GRATTAN P. McGROARTY
(UP Staff Correspondent)

LEYDEN, The Netherlands—British, Dutch and German airplanes are battling in engagement after engagement over this lowland today.

I have toured the region from Amsterdam, The Hague, Rotterdam to Leyden. Overhead planes are flying constantly. I witnessed five dog fights in the space of a few hours and countless others are going on all the time.

In the battles I saw at least two German planes shot down and other limped away on one motor, obviously damaged. The Germans are both bombing key points and ground-strafing Dutch troop concentrations.

In the vicinity of Maas, near the mouth of the Meuse river, the Dutch occupied all bridgeheads along the river and raised the draw-bridges over the canals.

Fierce fighting developed along a road leading to Maas between the Dutch and German troops, apparently landed by parachute. The Germans apparently were striking for the shipyard at Maas.

The Hollanders built barricades of boards and stones in the center of the city. Ambulances dashed through the streets.

The populace remained calm and even buses and trams were operating although with some irregularity. Authorities, in accord with previous plans, were conducting house-to-house searches for "fifth column" elements.

At The Hague there had been two air raids up to 11 a. m. today. In one of them I was told that several women and children were killed by a bomb which hit Bethlehem hospital—a maternity institution—on the outskirts of the city.

A prison near to the hospital also was hit. It was believed the bombs were intended for a nearby railroad station.

There were bombings at Scheveningen and parachutists were dropped at Delft and Leyden. But these Gerfman detachments, I was told, were quickly wiped out.

ROOSEVELT HAS DUTCH ANCESTRY

Holland Invasion Carries Own Interest For President.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt had a special and personal interest in today's invasion of Holland by the German war machine. It was from the peaceful meadows of the Netherlands that his family tree sprang.

Back in 1649 a Dutchman named Claas Martenzen Van Roosevelt (or Rosenvelt, meaning "rose field") arrived at New Amsterdam in the new world to make his fortune. Claas had two sons, James and John.

That branch of the Roosevelt family from which Franklin D. Roosevelt is descended stemmed from James. The Theodore Roosevelt branch came down from John.

Roosevelt Protects Low Country Wealth

Dutch, Belgian Funds In U. S. Frozen to Prevent Nazi Seizure; Other Steps Expected to Follow.

President Roosevelt called at the White House for 10:30 a. m.

Officials of the state, war, navy and justice departments were summoned to consult with Mr. Roosevelt about extending the neutrality act provisions to the low countries.

For the president, Secretary Hull and other high government officers, there was little sleep throughout the night after the arrival of the first diplomatic report that the lightning of Europe's war was striking on a new front.

The president's order, which in effect blocks attempts of an invader to seize Dutch and Belgian assets here, prohibits sending any money to any of the invaded countries, or the transfer or liquidation within the United States of any assets of the countries without special permission from the secretary of the treasury.

Latest estimates of cash in this country show that the Netherlands had more than $200,000,000 and Belgium about $166,000,000.

These were cash deposits, in addition to undisclosed gold and securities held here by the governments and people of the invaded countries.

The invasion of the lowlands also brought into effect an emergency order of the Netherlands government a few days ago appointing Dr. A. Loudon, Dutch minister to the United States, paymaster for Dutch officials in foreign countries.

Although President Roosevelt's order technically impounds the funds at Dr. Loudon's disposal, apparently the treasury was prepared to facilitate any license applications he might make for necessary expenses of Dutch officials.

At the conference of high officials, the question of Dutch and Belgian flagships now in the ports of the American republic will be considered.

Those who were called to the White House meeting were Secretary Hull, Undersecretary Welles, Attorney General Jackson, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations.

President Roosevelt talked twice by telephone during the night with Ambassador John Cudahy at Brussels, who reported the Nazi advance on the low countries. Cudahy said that German warplanes already were bombing the airport outside the Belgian capital.

Secretary Hull called in his principal aides and they were in conference long after midnight.

Informed diplomatic sources saw far-reaching problems for the United States in the Orient and the western hemisphere, as well as in Europe, as a result of the new spread of Europe's war.

Holland possesses the Dutch West Indies, including the wealthy island of Curacoa, and Dutch Guiana on the north coast of South America.

Officials were watching the Far East with greatest care, in the belief that the status quo of the Netherlands East Indies, important source for American strategic raw materials such as tin and rubber, should be maintained.

Dutch Queen Makes Appeal For "Calm and Devotion"

(By International News Service)

THE HAGUE—Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands today addressed a proclamation to the nation over the official Dutch radio appealing for "calm and devotion" in Holland's crisis.

"I and my government will do our duty," she said.

"German armed forces, without the slightest warning, made a sudden attack upon our territory last night despite a solemn promise that our neutrality would be respected.

"I hereby address a burning protest against this unexampled breach of good faith and disregard of decency between civilized nations.

"I appeal to you everywhere and in all circumstances that each of you wherever stationed will with utmost vigilance, calm and devotion do your duty to the state."

A communique by the Dutch high command said:

"German troops crossed the Dutch frontier beginning at 3 a. m. today.

"Aerial attacks have been attempted at several airdromes.

"The Dutch army and anti-aircraft artillery are ready.

"Floodings have been carried out according to plan.

D. J. SMITH, CHURCH WORKER AND REMY COMPANY TREASURER, DIES

Daniel J. Smith, 88, treasurer of the Albert F. Remy company, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. S. F. Martin, 26 Columbia avenue, this morning. He had been ill for several months.

Associated with the Remy wholesale grocery company for 47 years and active in church circles for even longer years, he was widely known throughout the city and surrounding territory.

Mr. Smith was born in Crawford county Aug. 30, 1851 and grew to young manhood in the vicinity of Galion. His first job as a boy was carrying water for the construction gangs on the Atlantic and Great Western Railway, which later became a part of the Erie system. He received 25 cents a day.

While still in his teens he became a country school teacher and for four years worked in the Crawford county schools. In 1883 he came to Mansfield where he obtained a position with the Wagner Hardware company where he remained for ten years. In 1893 the Albert F. Remy company was incorporated and he accepted a position as bookkeeper.

From that date until six months ago he was to be found at his office every work day. For many years he served as secretary of the company and in recent years had been treasurer.

He was an active member of First Lutheran church, serving as superintendent of the Sunday school for 25 years, and later taught a Sunday school class. When the Richland County Sunday School association was organized, he was elected its first president.

His wife died in 1927 and he had made his home in recent years with his two daughters, Mrs. S. F. Martin, at whose home he died, and Mrs. W. H. Smith, who resided in the old Smith homestead at 182 West First street. He is also survived by four grandchildren and one great grandchild.

DANIEL J. SMITH

The body will be at the Martin home on West First street until Monday noon, when it will be taken to the Finefrock funeral home for services at 2 p. m. Rev. Grover Swoyer will officiate and burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Because of the West Fourth street paving project closing the street in front of the funeral home, space for cars has been provided at the rear of the home and may be reached from West Temple court.

HOBBIES? THERE ARE LOTS OF 'EM AT YMCA SHOW

Exhibits Range in Size From Small Button to 300-Pound Miniature Lighthouse.

The little country store that sells everything from soup to nuts has nothing on the second annual hobby show of the Buckeye Hobby club when it comes to variety. The show is now in progress at the Y. M. C. A.

On display are about 175 collections of various articles ranging in size from a small button to a concrete lighthouse which weighs 300 pounds and is 5 feet 10 inches tall.

There are collections of salt and pepper shakers, rugs, postcards, leathercraft, glass slippers, shoes and hats, match covers, perfume bottles, bells, postmarks, autographs, oil and water color paintings, first day covers, stamps, dolls, guns, money, bottles and numerous other articles.

The large lighthouse was made by A. R. Holtz of Shelby, and is one of four he has built to be placed along the driveway at his home. The houses are built in three pieces so they can be easily moved.

One of the unusual collections is an exhibit of 150 padlocks of all shapes and sizes belonging to Paul Harter of Mansfield. Smallest of the locks is about a half inch high. The largest measures about eight inches.

Another unusual exhibit is made up of 75 different bells gathered by Mrs. David N. Roller. They include a hand made Russian bell; a call bell used in a French convent; a porcelain bell, on which can be found the White House insignia, a gift from the White House to Col. Charles A. Lindberg's mother; an old school bell; a camel bell from Persia; an Arabian bell and a Chinese gong.

Attracting a large amount of attention are original letters of presidents displayed by A. M. Colby. The collection includes letters written by every president of the United States from George Washington to Franklin D. Roosevelt, with the exception of James Buchanan.

Shows Old Coins.

The only coin collection at the show is a commemorative collection of W. J. Dormaier. It includes U. S. pennies from 1793 to 1937, German bank notes, and a pine tree schilling dated 1652. This is the first coin made in America. It was made in Boston 32 years after the arrival of the pilgrims.

Playing cards of all sizes, shapes and colors, are exhibited by Mrs. L. A. Ott of Mansfield. The collection includes cards not only from the United States but from Germany, Holland, Russia, Japan and China.

Included in a collection of articles made in various countries, and owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McAllister, is a handkerchief received from Maria Ouspenskaya, actress, who had one of the leading roles in the motion picture "The Rains Came." Miss Ouspenskaya has her name in her own handwriting embroidered in one corner. It also includes a pin cushion from Scotland, a dinner gong from China and a beer mug from Japan.

Author Louis Bromfield is the subject of one of the postmark and covers displayed by Harry Shover of the Buckeye Hobby club. A drawing of Bromfield appears on the envelope and it is postmarked, Broomfield, Colo. Probably the most outstanding cover is one on which is drawn 15 books, the titles of which when put side by side form the Lord's prayer. This envelope is postmarked, Old Church, Va.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, MAY 10, 1940.

Aside from "Humboldt's cold days of May"—due quite soon—Spring's second coming seems much more dependable.

Some of those candidates who now think they have a safe lead might do well to remember Bimelech's experience last Saturday.

However little interest may be shown by others, YOU should vote at next Tuesday's primaries—for it is people like YOU who are responsible for local, state and national government.

Great Britain's Internal Strife

THE present turmoil in England, marked by violent opposition to Prime Minister Chamberlain and Great Britain's war policies, is the culmination of a series of events which started as long ago as the disastrous Munich agreement and gained impetus in the successive invasions of Czechoslovakia, Poland, Finland and, more recently, Norway.

Invasion of Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg by Nazi forces has been anticipated for weeks and seems to follow the pattern of Hitler's aggressive moves against Europe's small independent nations, with intent to bring all of them under Nazi domination.

Whether the combined military power of Great Britain, France, and the small nations now involved, when developed to its greatest strength, will be sufficient to meet this onslaught and eventually bring order out of the present chaos, cannot now be foretold. The situation, as viewed today, seems desperate.

Strategically, the British abandonment of nearly all of Norway, after a losing attempt to repel German invaders, may not be very important in a war of such growing scope and changing character, but the effect on Allied morale must be regarded as serious, as is also the impression made on small neutrals that had looked to Great Britain for support and protection.

Just what will come out of the more determined war policy which now seems imminent, is problematical, as is also the final course of Italy and Russia in connection with the conflict.

As citizens of a neutral nation it appears ill-advised, even presumptuous for people of the United States to adversely criticize Great Britain's war policies or offer suggestions to the Allies. As nearly as can be judged from this distance, Britain may have been doing the wise thing, or even the inevitable thing. But that possibility isn't satisfying to victims and neutral onlookers who realize the world menace of the war situation as it now stands.

Unsafe Driving Practice

ONE of the bad driving practices encountered in rural sections as well as in Mansfield and some other cities, is that of ignoring stop signs.

Particularly dangerous is the habit of many farmers in driving their car out of a lane or side road onto a main highway without stopping to make sure that they are not getting directly in the path of an oncoming car which cannot be stopped in time to avoid a collision.

This particular kind of accident has occurred with such frequency in the Mansfield area as to provide convincing proof that all motorists should bring their car to a complete stop before driving onto a highway, and also that there should be the strictest possible enforcement of this state law by highway patrolmen.

While this may sometimes seem to work a hardship on individuals who are penalized for the offense, it cannot be doubted that arrest and payment of a fine will tend toward greater carefulness in the future, and if a crash—and possible fatality can be thus avoided, arrest and payment of a fine may well be regarded as a minor incident.

Word from Columbus is to the effect that Col. Robert S. Beightler, state highway director, has announced immediate launching of a traffic education program, to be conducted through the state highway patrol and to include a warning to speeders.

This will not be along "speed trap" lines, Col. Beightler asserts, nor will motorists be held strictly to the 45 miles an hour speed limit, but permitted speed will be dependent on weather and traffic conditions.

With more uniformly reasonable speed on the highways, and general observance of stop signs on rural roads entering these highways, accidents due to these causes can be substantially reduced.

Solicit Help for Children

MANY Americans are shocked at the suffering inflicted on countries that threatened no one and asked only to be allowed to live in peace. They look with horror at pictures of wrecked homes and homeless people.

There is something they can do to relieve their feelings. They can translate their indignation and pity into help for the least prepared victims of European outrages—the children.

The Non-Sectarian Foundation for Refuge Children has been organized in New York City. Among its directors and vice presidents are representatives of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish agencies. Its purpose is to help children now entering the United States under the quota laws, who have been left homeless by the poverty, imprisonment or death of their parents. The Foundation, with headquarters on Fourth avenue, New York City, can make good use of any money, much or little, contributed to this work.

Preparation for Watch-Making

THE United Horological Association of America (clock and watch-makers) are disturbed because of the indiscriminate growth of "pseudo-colleges professing to turn out expert watchmakers like an assembly line." They voted, at a recent national convention, to set up standards for teaching their trade "in accredited colleges and universities throughout the country."

Here is a good end sought by a poor means. Young people who wish to make their livelihood by watch or clock-making should certainly have suitable preparation for the work. There should be places where they can learn the job from the start and acquire the needed skill. But surely there is a better way than attaching such special trade courses to existing colleges, a majority of which are already cluttered with too many subjects. Revival of the apprenticeship plan for learning trades might be the solution of such problems.

If there's still a hangover from the Civil war debt, taxes on "Gone With the Wind" profits may help to wipe it out—boxoffice receipts have already topped the seventeen million mark.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—We have an interesting if ticklish situation here in Rockefeller Center because the foreign correspondents from Germany, France, Great Britain, Russia and Japan are all on the same floor. They use the same elevators and necessarily encounter each other every day.

* * *

It would be denied if you asked one of these men about cross-currents of feeling, but the truth is that personal relations are definitely strained. The boys from the French and the British agencies, Havas and Reuters, are extremely cordial. It is my personal observation that when the journalistic representatives of Germany meet those of France or Britain there's a surface politeness, but that is all. This is a condition that has existed since the morning Poland was invaded by the Germans.

* * *

The German agency, D. N. B., is Deutsches Nachrichten Buero. Tass (Russian) means the Telegraph Agency of the USSR. The Japanese agency is Domei. The French is Agence Havas. The British agency (Reuters) is headed by a lanky, dark Briton whose name is A. Bernard Moloney. Dr. Luckenhaus is the German correspondent. M. G. Fritsch-Estrangin is the French bureau chief, and Mr. Kenneth Durant heads the Russian agency. Most of these agencies are well-staffed with writers, Reuters having 24 men. It is an outwardly cool and polite set-up, but you know as well as I know how it is underneath.

* * *

THE first thing managers of orchestras that recently have come into the big time talk about is "Kay Kyser Money." Kyser holds the record for money paid to a band during a single week on Broadway. This is for appearances at Broadway motion picture theaters. The other night I was told by an enthusiastic manager, "We're getting Kay Kyser Money now." He said Kay Kyser Money meant $10,000 a week. That's big money. That's plenty of money. But it isn't Kyser's top price. On at least one occasion he was paid $13,000 a week for appearing at the Strand theater.

* * *

I saw Kay just before he left town. Ran into him coming out of the Waldorf, where he lived all last winter. He was feeling pretty good. He was getting ready to go to the coast, but said he had just got a "hurry up" call from Jim, his man, back in Rock Mount, N. C.

Kay said the "hurry up" meant, "hurry up and send me a tuxedo, so I can lead the grand march at the ball."

The tux, in case you're interested, was already on the way down.

THE state liquor control board is eyeing with disapproval those night club ads in the newspapers which call attention to such alleged sleep-producing concoctions as Zombies, Draculas, etc. There has been a wave of this recently in the clubs featuring Latin and South seas entertainment. The Zombie is supposed to be a mystery drink, and the management has prominently displayed placards saying it will under no circumstances sell more than 2 to a customer. This, of course, is strictly the onion soup. They will sell all you care to order. The "mystery" of the Zombie is that it contains 3, instead of one, jiggers of rum, and two of these are quite sufficient to mummify the average patron.

Mother Love Doesn't "Just Happen."

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I WISH PEOPLE—all these people who go ga-ga on Mother's day . . . could know Mothers as they really are. Not as you read about 'em in some sentimental poem.

There is probably more tripe written about Mothers and Mother Love than about any other subject on earth . . . and more Cain raised in consequence.

First off, we assume that all females who give birth are Good Mothers. Which is plain bunk. The mere feat of giving birth is no spiritual phenomenon . . . and wins no heavenly halo. Any rabbit can give birth—then frolic off to the next cabbage. And large numbers of human mothers follow the same procedure . . . and are equally unreliable as guardians for their young. It takes more—plenty more!—than the act of reproduction, to qualify as a Great Mother. And the entire standard of Mothering would be immensely improved if we'd recognize that fact and cut out the sentimental hooey.

I smile a little wryly at all these Mothers' Day exhibits—these fulsome tributes to a love which we take so for granted. But no good Mother dares to take her love for granted—even for an hour. She knows—how well she knows!—that she faces a daily battle to lift—and give—that love above her own selfish desire. She also knows—with what inner consternation—how easily love can flicker and fade before weariness, boredom and honest irritation.

According to popular belief, Real Mothers just happen. Like spring mushrooms. And Mother Love descends upon you—like lightning, or a dose of hives—at the first sound of your baby's voice. Nothing could be further from the truth. True Motherhood isn't spontaneous combustion but deliberate achievement. Mothers don't "get that way" in one glorious flash. They earn their crowns by slow and painful struggle and sacrifice.

For no Mother is ever automatically "Mom." Before ever she dons a wedding ring—or rubs a colicky little back—she is an Individual in her own right. And remains so. It is not easy for her to "give her life for others." She often desires—as fiercely as any normal individual desires—to use her life for herself. She is filled—as other individuals are filled—with selfishness, ambition, cowardice and rebellion and conceit. There are times when even the most beloved child becomes a plain pain in-the-neck . . . and nothing else but. There are times—endless times—when every hot-blooded mother longs to "jump her job" and Be Herself . . . her laughing, careless, vagabond self.

Yet despite this inner knowledge and urge she girds her heart to go on. And therein lies the supreme glory and wonder of motherhood. For a woman becomes a mother not because she gives life but because she denies life . . . because she deliberately puts another life ahead of her own.

Think of these things as you remember your Mother . . . as you look at her lined face or touch her wrinkled hand. Put your egotism aside . . . forget your foolish notion that she found her "highest joy in serving you." She did—but before she could find that joy she had to crucify herself.

How do I know these things? Because I, too, am a mother. Once, long ago, my arms held a tiny, wailing burden . . . and I'd give all I have left of life or love if he could come back to fill their emptiness again . . . And yet I know that love was not born in that moment. I learned it on my knees . . . at the foot of a Cross.

Timely Editorial

Turn Toward Conservatism.

The change since the election of 1936 has gone further toward middle-of-the-road conservatism than appears to be realized by those who have eyes for nothing but the third-term hobgoblin.

In the second Roosevelt term, there were only two new ventures in business reform and regulation of more than minor significance—both adopted early in 1938—the food, drug and cosmetics act and the wage-hour law. . . . Since then, Congress has looked with increasingly jaundiced eyes at new agencies and at further new deal reforms.

These realities now point to government by negotiation, compromise and cooperation between the White House and Congress—which is to say government in the best traditions of our representative democracy. . . . Regardless of who the next president will be, there is no reason to fear "inevitable disaster" on the one hand nor, on the other hand, to expect a miraculous remedy for all of our economic troubles.—Magazine of Wall Street.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"All His Geese Are Swans"

Nice idiom of a former generation. "All his geese are swans" was a favorite figure of speech for "He is given to exaggerating the virtues and advantages of everything that is his."

Burton, in his famous Anatomy of Melancholy, probably gave its currency great impetus; but his inspiration for its use undoubtedly lay in an old Irish folk tale.

This concerned a poor farmer, who, for his industry and struggles, was rewarded by the fairies who turned all his geese into swans.

And these, according to the story, became the most efficient servants who, quite without let or hindrance, transformed an impoverished hovel into a prosperous establishment.

Rose Fever From Grass Pollens.

—By DR. CLENDENING

IT IS called "rose fever" because it comes when the roses are blooming. Some people have it and some people don't. Some of those who have it refer to it as "my spring cold."

It was not until John Bostock, the Englishman, experimented on his own case that the guilty parties were found not to be the roses, but the grasses. John Bostock published his observations over 100 years ago, but nobody paid any attention to them until just lately.

It is natural for the rose fever victim to ascribe his trouble to the roses because when he smells the roses he is liable to get an attack. But this is merely because the sticky petals and stamens of the rose hold the wind-blown pollen of the grasses, and when the victim is even in the room with the roses, the effluvia affects the mucous membrane of his nose.

The grasses which are responsible and the time of their blooming are as follows:

May 17—blue grass; May 17—rye; May 28—orchard grass; May 27—wheat; June 15—timothy; June 10—cattail; July 1-30—corn.

The treatment may be either palliative or preventive. By palliative treatment is meant the treatment of symptoms by nasal sprays and eye drops. This we will deal with in an article later on in the season when symptoms are likely to be acute.

Preventive treatment consists in the use of pollen vaccines. It should start some time before the season begins. That is why I am drawing attention to it now.

The procedure as carried out by the modern doctor who is interested in allergy is to determine exactly what grass the victim is sensitive to. The principle upon which this diagnosis rests is that the skin is very sensitive to the chemicals of the pollen, and when a solution of the pollen is made and injected into the skin, or rubbed into the skin, there will be a red and inflammatory area of considerable size. Several different pollens are rubbed in at the same time and the ones which show the largest wheal are those against which treatment is directed.

After the offending pollen is identified, hypodermic injections of weak dilutions of the pollen solution are made, growing stronger every week so that finally by the time the season opens, the patient will have acquired an immunity and can get through the season with little or no discomfort.

It is posssible to give this preventive treatment co-seasonally, that is, beginning at the time the symptoms begin. My own experience has been that this vaccine treatment is more effective to use against the spring type of hay fever than against the fall or ragweed type.

Doctor Vaughan, of Richmond, believes that 80 per cent of patients receive adequate relief with co-seasonal treatment and 85 per cent with pre-seasonal treatment. By adequate relief is meant the disappearance of 75 per cent of symptoms.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—No matter what they may think of Roosevelt's domestic policies or politics, some of his severest critics give him credit for being absolutely right on foreign strategy.

Exactly two years ago the president told his cabinet in categoric terms that he was convinced war was inescapable in Europe, and that the results would be serious in the extreme for the democracies.

Last summer, also, he informed congressional leaders that war was inevitable in the autumn—and got scoffed at for his warning.

In view of the president's consistent record for accuracy on things international, his present views are very much worth recording.

By nature, Roosevelt is an optimist. But regarding the present Allied position he is not optimistic. In fact, he is inclined to think that the Allies are in for a defeat, that their situation is much more serious than the American public realizes.

Naturally, the president is not expressing these views publicly. Also they are subject to change. But the close study he is giving to the Monroe Doctrine, the defense of the American continent, and especially to the possibility of enemy air bases in Iceland, Mexico, and around Panama, all indicate that he is figuring on the distinct possibility of a crushing Allied defeat.

Placid Politicians.

I'VE got a lot of big shots in my precinct," says Police Captain Clarence Tally of Georgetown, on the western edge of Washington. I've got Justice Roberts, and Justice Frankfurter, and Miss Perkins, and Mr. Hopkins, and there's Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, and Senator Wadsworth of New York.

"Sometimes, when you have big shots like that, they make a lot of trouble, with complaints about the neighbors and all. But not these. They don't give me any trouble at all."

* * *

Under the Dome.

NEW HAMPSHIRE'S presidential-minded Senator H. Styles Bridges is an ardent fancier of sea foods, chiefly broiled lobster. He often polishes off a big helping twice a day—and suffers no consequences. . . . From the unflattering picture he sends to constituents who ask for an autographed photo, you'd never know that tall, youthful, dark-haired Representative Lyndon Johnson of Texas is one of the handsomest men in congress. The picture shows him in shirt sleeves, with a growth of stubbly beard and disheveled hair. "Hell," drawls Johnson when kidded about it, "my constituents sent me to Washington, not to Hollywood." . . . The hobby of Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania is saving dimes. He has a glass bank on his desk, and before closing his office, drops in all the dimes he finds in his pocket.

Vice President Dewey?

YOUNG TOM DEWEY continues to turn a deaf ear to vice presidential propositions.

While in the Far West recently, a prominent Republican cautiously sounded him out regarding the vice presidency in case he didn't get the presidential nomination. Dewey shook his head.

"I don't see how I could afford it," he said. "The vice presidency only pays $15,000 a year and I can make $50,000."

Later, in Utah, Dewey told a friend that if he isn't nominated, he would consider running for the senate against New Deal incumbent Jim Mead. This was the first hint of such a plan. Most prominent GOP rival so far mentioned against Mead is Representative Bruce Barton, noted advertising expert.

MEANWHILE the Dewey delegation in Wisconsin is having internal trouble. Despite the landslide which snowed under Vandenberg, rebellion broke out at a meeting called by Dewey's manager, Ted Bacon, to pick a national committeeman and committeewoman from Wisconsin.

Bacon, himself, wanted to serve as committeeman, with Mrs. Jennie Thomas as committeewoman. But Fred Zimmerman, Wisconsin secretary of state, protested. He, and four other delegates, protested so vigorously that Bacon hurriedly got Dewey on the long distance telephone, and had him talk to each of the delegates. It cost Dewey 40 minutes of long distance tolls.

One significant question which dissident delegates hurled at Ted Bacon during this meeting was whom Wisconsin should support as second choice in case Dewey lost out. But there was no answer. Bacon ruled the question out of order.

British Sinkings.

AMERICAN naval observers, who have been trying to pierce the maze of German claims and British denials regarding battleship sinkings, come to one conclusion: The Germans have not sunk nearly as many ships as they say they have, but the British navy is not in too good shape, either.

What actually happened is that a good many British warships have been damaged and have had to go to drydock. This takes them out of battle for weeks or even months. Temporarily, it is just as effective as sinking them.

As of today, five British battleships are in drydock, and one is sunk. This much is definite. There may be others sunk, as claimed by the Germans, but if so, U. S. naval observers have not been able to confirm it.

Since Britain has only 15 battleships, the wounding of six is a serious blow, and gives considerable support to the contention in some quarters that the battleship now must take its place with the horse and buggy.

Like the fighting elephants used by Hannibal, battleships are superpowerful, but expensive to maintain, hard to maneuver fast enough to dodge the less expensive airplane.

Note—One reason for the constant German claims of sinking British warships is to wring denials from the British which will reveal just what their naval strength is. Actually, aviators usually cannot tell when they sink a vessel. They can't afford to remain in the vicinity to see whether it sinks. Nor do the Germans know just how strong the British are in certain areas, such as the Mediterranean and the North Sea. So they try to get revealing denials from the Admiralty.

Merry-Go-Round.

NEXT to get a whirl on Thurman Arnold's anti-trust merry-go-round is the drug distribution business. He is completing a nation-wide probe of the industry, plans to open a barrage of grand jury proceedings . . . Within an hour after SEC Chairman Jerry Frank had made a speech before the Cleveland Kiwanis club urging local business men to do their own financing, the club launched a drive to organize a co-operative enterprise for that purpose . . . Livest piece of news at the U. S. Chamber of Commerce convention in Washington last week was the information that the fastest growing industry in the country, next to aviation, is low-cost housing. Last year 60,000 homes costing between $1500 and $3000 were built. This year the total will reach about 100,000.

Ohio Anecdotes

Fur Trade In Ohio.

FUR TRADING was a pioneer industry in the Ohio country, and those who engaged in it were a cosmopolitan group, coming from a variety of countries. Often it was a fur trader who first discovered a river, a new portage or broke a new trail into the frontier.

Fur traders' camps throughout the new west often were welcomed shelters to pioneers enroute to new settlements. Realizing fur trading to be profitable, Indians concentrated their energies in hunting and trading, which offered a common meeting ground for tribesmen and white men.

However, after Pontiac's uprising in 1763, the British prohibited their colonists from trading with Ohio country Indians. George Croghan first violated the order by setting up a trading post on the Scioto, 70 miles from the river mouth.

The ensuing altercation resulted in having the restrictions removed Oct. 4, 1776.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, MAY 10, 1940.

Aside from "Humboldt's cold days of May"—due quite soon—Spring's second coming seems much more dependable.

Some of those candidates who now think they have a safe lead might do well to remember Bimelech's experience last Saturday.

However little interest may be shown by others, YOU should vote at next Tuesday's primaries—for it is people like YOU who are responsible for local, state and national government.

Great Britain's Internal Strife

THE present turmoil in England, marked by violent opposition to Prime Minister Chamberlain and Great Britain's war policies, is the culmination of a series of events which started as long ago as the disastrous Munich agreement and gained impetus in the successive invasions of Czechoslovakia, Poland, Finland and, more recently, Norway.

Invasion of Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg by Nazi forces has been anticipated for weeks and seems to follow the pattern of Hitler's aggressive moves against Europe's small independent nations, with intent to bring all of them under Nazi domination.

Whether the combined military power of Great Britain, France, and the small nations now involved, when developed to its greatest strength, will be sufficient to meet this onslaught and eventually bring order out of the present chaos, cannot now be foretold. The situation, as viewed today, seems desperate.

Strategically, the British abandonment of nearly all of Norway, after a losing attempt to repel German invaders, may not be very important in a war of such growing scope and changing character, but the effect on Allied morale must be regarded as serious, as is also the impression made on small neutrals that had looked to Great Britain for support and protection.

Just what will come out of the more determined war policy which now seems imminent, is problematical, as is also the final course of Italy and Russia in connection with the conflict.

As citizens of a neutral nation it appears ill-advised, even presumptuous for people of the United States to adversely criticize Great Britain's war policies or offer suggestions to the Allies. As nearly as can be judged from this distance, Britain may have been doing the wise thing, or even the inevitable thing. But that possibility isn't satisfying to victims and neutral onlookers who realize the world menace of the war situation as it now stands.

Unsafe Driving Practice

ONE of the bad driving practices encountered in rural sections as well as in Mansfield and some other cities, is that of ignoring stop signs.

Particularly dangerous is the habit of many farmers in driving their car out of a lane or side road onto a main highway without stopping to make sure that they are not getting directly in the path of an oncoming car which cannot be stopped in time to avoid a collision.

This particular kind of accident has occurred with such frequency in the Mansfield area as to provide convincing proof that all motorists should bring their car to a complete stop before driving onto a highway, and also that there should be the strictest possible enforcement of this state law by highway patrolmen.

While this may sometimes seem to work a hardship on individuals who are penalized for the offense, it cannot be doubted that arrest and payment of a fine will tend toward greater carefulness in the future, and if a crash—and possible fatality can be thus avoided, arrest and payment of a fine may well be regarded as a minor incident.

Word from Columbus is to the effect that Col. Robert S. Beightler, state highway director, has announced immediate launching of a traffic education program, to be conducted through the state highway patrol and to include a warning to speeders.

This will not be along "speed trap" lines, Col. Beightler asserts, nor will motorists be held strictly to the 45 miles an hour speed limit, but permitted speed will be dependent on weather and traffic conditions.

With more uniformly reasonable speed on the highways, and general observance of stop signs on rural roads entering these highways, accidents due to these causes can be substantially reduced.

Solicit Help for Children

MANY Americans are shocked at the suffering inflicted on countries that threatened no one and asked only to be allowed to live in peace. They look with horror at pictures of wrecked homes and homeless people.

There is something they can do to relieve their feelings. They can translate their indignation and pity into help for the least prepared victims of European outrages—the children.

The Non-Sectarian Foundation for Refuge Children has been organized in New York City. Among its directors and vice presidents are representatives of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish agencies. Its purpose is to help children now entering the United States under the quota laws, who have been left homeless by the poverty, imprisonment or death of their parents. The Foundation, with headquarters on Fourth avenue, New York City, can make good use of any money, much or little, contributed to this work.

Preparation for Watch-Making

THE United Horological Association of America (clock and watch-makers) are disturbed because of the indiscriminate growth of "pseudo-colleges professing to turn out expert watchmakers like an assembly line." They voted, at a recent national convention, to set up standards for teaching their trade "in accredited colleges and universities throughout the country."

Here is a good end sought by a poor means. Young people who wish to make their livelihood by watch or clock-making should certainly have suitable preparation for the work. There should be places where they can learn the job from the start and acquire the needed skill. But surely there is a better way than attaching such special trade courses to existing colleges, a majority of which are already cluttered with too many subjects. Revival of the apprenticeship plan for learning trades might be the solution of such problems.

If there's still a hangover from the Civil war debt, taxes on "Gone With the Wind" profits may help to wipe it out—boxoffice receipts have already topped the seventeen million mark.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—We have an interesting if ticklish situation here in Rockefeller Center because the foreign correspondents from Germany, France, Great Britain, Russia and Japan are all on the same floor. They use the same elevators and necessarily encounter each other every day.

* * *

It would be denied if you asked one of these men about cross-currents of feeling, but the truth is that personal relations are definitely strained. The boys from the French and the British agencies, Havas and Reuters, are extremely cordial. It is my personal observation that when the journalistic representatives of Germany meet those of France or Britain there's a surface politeness, but that is all. This is a condition that has existed since the morning Poland was invaded by the Germans.

* * *

The German agency, D. N. B., is Deutsches Nachrichten Buero. Tass (Russian) means the Telegraph Agency of the USSR. The Japanese agency is Domei. The French is Agence Havas. The British agency (Reuters) is headed by a lanky, dark Briton whose name is A. Bernard Moloney. Dr. Luckenhaus is the German correspondent. M. G. Fritsch-Estrangin is the French bureau chief, and Mr. Kenneth Durant heads the Russian agency. Most of these agencies are well-staffed with writers, Reuters having 24 men. It is an outwardly cool and polite set-up, but you know as well as I know how it is underneath.

* * *

THE first thing managers of orchestras that recently have come into the big time talk about is "Kay Kyser Money." Kyser holds the record for money paid to a band during a single week on Broadway. This is for appearances at Broadway motion picture theaters. The other night I was told by an enthusiastic manager, "We're getting Kay Kyser Money now." He said Kay Kyser Money meant $10,000 a week. That's big money. That's plenty of money. But it isn't Kyser's top price. On at least one occasion he was paid $13,000 a week for appearing at the Strand theater.

* * *

I saw Kay just before he left town. Ran into him coming out of the Waldorf, where he lived all last winter. He was feeling pretty good. He was getting ready to go to the coast, but said he had just got a "hurry up" call from Jim, his man, back in Rock Mount, N. C.

Kay said the "hurry up" meant, "hurry up and send me a tuxedo, so I can lead the grand march at the ball."

The tux, in case you're interested, was already on the way down.

THE state liquor control board is eyeing with disapproval those night club ads in the newspapers which call attention to such alleged sleep-producing concoctions as Zombies, Draculas, etc. There has been a wave of this recently in the clubs featuring Latin and South seas entertainment. The Zombie is supposed to be a mystery drink, and the management has prominently displayed placards saying it will under no circumstances sell more than 2 to a customer. This, of course, is strictly the onion soup. They will sell all you care to order. The "mystery" of the Zombie is that it contains 3 instead of one, jiggers of rum, and two of these are quite sufficient to mummify the average patron.

Mother Love Doesn't "Just Happen."

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I WISH PEOPLE—all these people who go ga-ga on Mother's day . . . could know Mothers as they really are. Not as you read about 'em in some sentimental poem.

There is probably more tripe written about Mothers and Mother Love than about any other subject on earth . . . and more Cain raised in consequence.

First off, we assume that all females who give birth are Good Mothers. Which is plain bunk. The mere feat of giving birth is no spiritual phenomenon . . . and wins no heavenly halo. Any rabbit can give birth—then frolic off to the next cabbage. And large numbers of human mothers follow the same procedure . . . and are equally unreliable as guardians for their young. It takes more—plenty more!—than the act of reproduction, to qualify as a Great Mother. And the entire standard of Mothering would be immensely improved if we'd recognize that fact and cut out the sentimental hooey.

I smile a little wryly at all these Mothers' Day exhibits—these fulsome tributes to a love which we take so for granted. But no good Mother dares to take her love for granted—even for an hour. She knows—how well she knows!—that she faces a daily battle to lift—and give—that love above her own selfish desire. She also knows—with what inner consternation—how easily love can flicker and fade before weariness, boredom and honest irritation.

According to popular belief, Real Mothers just happen. Like spring mushrooms. And Mother Love descends upon you—like lightning, or a dose of hives—at the first sound of your baby's voice. Nothing could be further from the truth. True Motherhood isn't spontaneous combustion but deliberate achievement. Mothers don't "get that way" in one glorious flash. They earn their crowns by slow and painful struggle and sacrifice.

For no Mother is ever automatically "Mom." Before ever she dons a wedding ring—or rubs a colicky little back—she is an Individual in her own right. And remains so. It is not easy for her to "give her life for others." She often desires—as fiercely as any normal individual desires—to use her life for herself. She is filled—as other individuals are filled—with selfishness, ambition, cowardice and rebellion and conceit. There are times when even the most beloved child becomes a plain pain in-the-neck . . . and nothing else but. There are times—endless times—when every hot-blooded mother longs to "jump her job" and Be Herself . . . her laughing, careless, vagabond self.

Yet despite this inner knowledge and urge she girds her heart to go on. And therein lies the supreme glory and wonder of motherhood. For a woman becomes a mother not because she gives life but because she denies life . . . because she deliberately puts another life ahead of her own.

Think of these things as you remember your Mother . . . as you look at her lined face or touch her wrinkled hand. Put your egotism aside . . . forget your foolish notion that she found her "highest joy in serving you." She did—but before she could find that joy she had to crucify herself.

How do I know these things? Because I, too, am a mother. Once, long ago, my arms held a tiny, wailing burden . . . and I'd give all I have left of life or love if he could come back to fill their emptiness again . . . And yet I know that love was not born in that moment. I learned it on my knees . . . at the foot of a Cross.

Timely Editorial

Turn Toward Conservatism.

The change since the election of 1936 has gone further toward middle-of-the-road conservatism than appears to be realized by those who have eyes for nothing but the third-term hobgoblin.

In the second Roosevelt term, there were only two new ventures in business reform and regulation of more than minor significance—both adopted early in 1938—the food, drug and cosmetics act and the wage-hour law. . . . Since then, Congress has looked with increasingly jaundiced eyes at new agencies and at further new deal reforms.

These realities now point to government by negotiation, compromise and cooperation between the White House and Congress—which is to say government in the best traditions of our representative democracy. . . . Regardless of who the next president will be, there is no reason to fear "inevitable disaster" on the one hand nor, on the other hand, to expect a miraculous remedy for all of our economic troubles.—Magazine of Wall Street.

Rose Fever From Grass Pollens.

—By DR. CLENDENING

IT IS called "rose fever" because it comes when the roses are blooming. Some people have it and some people don't. Some of those who have it refer to it as "my spring cold."

It was not until John Bostock, the Englishman, experimented on his own case that the guilty parties were found not to be the roses, but the grasses. John Bostock published his observations over 100 years ago, but nobody paid any attention to them until just lately.

It is natural for the rose fever victim to ascribe his trouble to the roses because when he smells the roses he is liable to get an attack. But this is merely because the sticky petals and stamens of the rose hold the wind-blown pollen of the grasses, and when the victim is even in the room with the roses, the effluvia affects the mucous membrane of his nose.

The grasses which are responsible and the time of their blooming are as follows:

May 17—blue grass; May 17—rye; May 28—orchard grass; May 27—wheat; June 15—timothy; June 10—cattail; July 1-30—corn.

The treatment may be either palliative or preventive. By palliative treatment is meant the treatment of symptoms by nasal sprays and eye drops. This we will deal with in an article later on in the season when symptoms are likely to be acute.

Preventive treatment consists in the use of pollen vaccines. It should start some time before the season begins. That is why I am drawing attention to it now.

The procedure as carried out by the modern doctor who is interested in allergy is to determine exactly what grass the victim is sensitive to. The principle upon which this diagnosis rests is that the skin is very sensitive to the chemicals of the pollen, and when a solution of the pollen is made and injected into the skin, or rubbed into the skin, there will be a red and inflammatory area of considerable size. Several different pollens are rubbed in at the same time and the ones which show the largest wheal are those against which treatment is directed.

After the offending pollen is identified, hypodermic iniections of weak dilutions of the pollen solution are made, growing stronger every week so that finally by the time the season opens, the patient will have acquired an immunity and can get through the season with little or no discomfort.

It is posssible to give this preventive treatment co-seasonally, that is, beginning at the time the symptoms begin. My own experience has been that this vaccine treatment is more effective to use against the spring type of hay fever than against the fall or ragweed type.

Doctor Vaughan, of Richmond, believes that 80 per cent of patients receive adequate relief with co-seasonal treatment and 85 per cent with pre-seasonal treatment. By adequate relief is meant the disappearance of 75 per cent of symptoms.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"All His Geese Are Swans"

Nice idiom of a former generation, "All his geese are swans" was a favorite figure of speech for "He is given to exaggerating the virtues and advantages of everything that is his."

Burton, in his famous Anatomy of Melancholy, probably gave its currency great impetus; but his inspiration for its use undoubtedly lay in an old Irish folk tale.

This concerned a poor farmer, who, for his industry and struggles, was rewarded by the fairies who turned all his geese into swans.

And these, according to the story, became the most efficient servants who, quite without let or hindrance, transformed an impoverished hovel into a prosperous establishment.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—No matter what they may think of Roosevelt's domestic policies or politics, some of his severest critics give him credit for being absolutely right on foreign strategy.

Exactly two years ago the president told his cabinet in categoric terms that he was convinced war was inescapable in Europe, and that the results would be serious in the extreme for the democracies.

Last summer, also, he informed congressional leaders that war was inevitable in the autumn—and got scoffed at for his warning.

In view of the president's consistent record for accuracy on things international, his present views are very much worth recording.

By nature, Roosevelt is an optimist. But regarding the present Allied position he is not optimistic. In fact, he is inclined to think that the Allies are in for a defeat, that their situation is much more serious than the American public realizes.

Naturally, the president is not expressing these views publicly. Also they are subject to change. But the close study he is giving to the Monroe Doctrine, the defense of the American continent, and especially to the possibility of enemy air bases in Iceland, Mexico, and around Panama, all indicate that he is figuring on the distinct possibility of a crushing Allied defeat.

Placid Politicians.

I'VE got a lot of big shots in my precinct," says Police Captain Clarence Tally of Georgetown, on the western edge of Washington. I've got Justice Roberts, and Justice Frankfurter, and Miss Perkins, and Mr. Hopkins, and there's Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, and Senator Wadsworth of New York.

"Sometimes, when you have big shots like that, they make a lot of trouble, with complaints about the neighbors and all. But not these. They don't give me any trouble at all."

* * *

Under the Dome.

NEW HAMPSHIRE'S presidential-minded Senator H. Styles Bridges is an ardent fancier of sea foods, chiefly broiled lobster. He often polishes off a big helping twice a day—and suffers no consequences. . . . From the unflattering picture he sends to constituents who ask for an autographed photo, you'd never know that tall, youthful, dark-haired Representative Lyndon Johnson of Texas is one of the handsomest men in congress. The picture shows him in shirt sleeves, with a growth of stubbly beard and disheveled hair. "Hell," drawls Johnson when kidded about it, "my constituents sent me to Washington, not to Hollywood." . . . The hobby of Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania is saving dimes. He has a glass bank on his desk, and before closing his office, drops in all the dimes he finds in his pocket.

Vice President Dewey?

While in the Far West recently, a prominent Republican cautiously sounded him out regarding the vice presidency in case he didn't get the presidential nomination. Dewey shook his head.

"I don't see how I could afford it," he said. "The vice presidency only pays $15,000 a year and I can make $50,000."

Later, in Utah, Dewey told a friend that if he isn't nominated, he would consider running for the senate against New Deal incumbent Jim Mead. This was the first hint of such a plan. Most prominent GOP rival so far mentioned against Mead is Representative Bruce Barton, noted advertising expert.

MEANWHILE the Dewey delegation in Wisconsin is having internal trouble. Despite the landslide which snowed under Vandenberg, rebellion broke out at a meeting called by Dewey's manager, Ted Bacon, to pick a national committeeman and committeewoman from Wisconsin.

Bacon, himself, wanted to serve as committeeman, with Mrs. Jennie Thomas as committeewoman. But Fred Zimmerman, Wisconsin secretary of state, protested. He, and four other delegates, protested so vigorously that Bacon hurriedly got Dewey on the long distance telephone, and had him talk to each of the delegates. It cost Dewey 40 minutes of long distance tolls.

One significant question which dissident delegates hurled at Ted Bacon during this meeting was whom Wisconsin should support as second choice in case Dewey lost out. But there was no answer. Bacon ruled the question out of order.

British Sinkings.

AMERICAN naval observers, who have been trying to pierce the maze of German claims and British denials regarding battleship sinkings, come to one conclusion: The Germans have not sunk nearly as many ships as they say they have, but the British navy is not in too good shape, either.

What actually happened is that a good many British warships have been damaged and have had to go to drydock. This takes them out of battle for weeks or even months. Temporarily, it is just as effective as sinking them.

As of today, five British battleships are in drydock, and one is sunk. This much is definite. There may be others sunk, as claimed by the Germans, but if so, U. S. naval observers have not been able to confirm it.

Since Britain has only 15 battleships, the wounding of six is a serious blow, and gives considerable support to the contention in some quarters that the battleship now must take its place with the horse and buggy.

Like the fighting elephants used by Hannibal, battleships are superpowerful, but expensive to maintain, hard to maneuver fast enough to dodge the less expensive airplane.

Note—One reason for the constant German claims of sinking British warships is to wring denials from the British which will reveal just what their naval strength is. Actually, aviators usually cannot tell when they sink a vessel. They can't afford to remain in the vicinity to see whether it sinks. Nor do the Germans know just how strong the British are in certain areas, such as the Mediterranean and the North Sea. So they try to get revealing denials from the Admiralty.

Merry-Go-Round.

NEXT to get a whirl on Thurman Arnold's anti-trust merry-go-round is the drug distribution business. He is completing a nation-wide probe of the industry, plans to open a barrage of grand jury proceedings . . . Within an hour after SEC Chairman Jerry Frank had made a speech before the Cleveland Kiwanis club urging local business men to do their own financing, the club launched a drive to organize a co-operative enterprise for that purpose . . . Livest piece of news at the U. S. Chamber of Commerce convention in Washington last week was the information that the fastest growing industry in the country, next to aviation, is low-cost housing. Last year 60,000 homes costing between $1500 and $3000 were built. This year the total will reach about 100,000.

Ohio Anecdotes

Fur Trade In Ohio.

FUR TRADING was a pioneer industry in the Ohio country, and those who engaged in it were a cosmopolitan group, coming from a variety of countries. Often it was a fur trader who first discovered a river, a new portage or broke a new trail into the frontier.

Fur traders' camps throughout the new west often were welcomed shelters to pioneers enroute to new settlements. Realizing fur trading to be profitable, Indians concentrated their energies in hunting and trading, which offered a common meeting ground for tribesmen and white men.

However, after Pontiac's uprising in 1763, the British prohibited their colonists from trading with Ohio country Indians. George Croghan first violated the order by setting up a trading post on the Scioto, 70 miles from the river mouth.

The ensuing altercation resulted in having the restrictions removed Oct. 4, 1776.

New Blitzkrieg Seen as Roosevelt Nomination 'Cinch'

OWN REFUSAL ONLY BAR TO PARTY CHOICE

Even Opponents Agree F. D. R. Can Swing Convention on First Ballot.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
(INS Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt is assured of a landslide nomination for a third term at Chicago in July—unless he personally prevents it.

This is the consensus today among Democrats in the capital. It is an opinion shared alike by third terms and anti-third termers, Garnerites, Farleyites and Wheelerites. Vice President John N. Garner said it privately; Senator Burton K. Wheeler publicly.

The only question puzzling Washington is whether the president can block his own nomination or reject it if he is drafted over his own objection. Opinion is growing, urged on by New Dealers, that the spreading European war will force Mr. Roosevelt to accept the draft.

Germany's new biltzkrieg on Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands has strengthened the cause of the third termers. Today, they are asserting that only Mr. Roosevelt has the experience, poise and knowledge to conduct governmental affairs through the harrowing days to come.

The president is a "cinch" to be renominated, on the basis of delegates pledged to him. Today, he has 415 delegates actually elected in his behalf. At least 180 more are pledged to him, though unelected as yet. The latter group include 22 in Iowa (which may try to give one vote to Agriculture Secretary Wallace), 52 in Ohio (nominally for Favorite-Son Charles Sawyer), 26 in North Carolina, 32 in New Jersey and 38 in Michigan, all without strings.

Thus the president has 585 delegates pledged to a third term—and he needs but 551 for the nomination. Indeed, the third term movement has taken on band-wagon proportions, with state leaders pledging their delegations far in advance of their own conventions. Instances are the North Carolina pledge (its convention meets May 17) and Michigan (its convention meets June 15.)

New Dealers predict the President will run after being drafted. Rep. Kent Keller (D) Ill., a third-termer, said:

"President Roosevelt will have more than 900 out of 1,100 delegates clamoring for his nomination when the convention opens. Before the first roll call is ended, a motion will be made to nominate him by acclamation and the show will be over. The president cannot reject it."

Others, like Rep. Martin J. Kennedy (D) N. Y., a Farleyite, however, doubt whether the president will run, Kennedy said:

"Nothing can stop the nomination of Roosevelt except a positive declaration from him that, 'I will not run.'

"I personally think the president would like to retire to the quiet and comfort of Hyde Park. If he reaches that decision, I will prophesy the name of one man who will surely be on the ticket. He is James A. Farley. I look for a ticket of Farley and Wheeler, or vice versa."

LOSES FIGHT

Woman to Stay in Jail as Result of Court Ruling.

Because she had two months of freedom under the Ohio insolvency act while serving a sentence for the illegal possession of liquor, Mary Kirkendall, 40, lost her plea before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court yesterday for release from the county jail.

The woman committed to county jail Oct. 24, 1939 to serve out a $400 fine and costs had been released by probate court on Dec. 28. She was picked up and re-committed on March 3 on a writ of execution issued by municipal court from which she was originally sentenced.

Her plea yesterday, entered by Atty. Jacob Wagenhals, was based on the law which provides for release from jail after serving six months for a misdemeanor.

Judge Kalbfleisch ruled that the woman had not served six months in that she had been free more than two months since the time of her first commitment.

'Clearing House' For Meetings Wins C. of C. Approval

A proposal of the Mansfield chapter of Symposiarchs for a date "clearing house" for meetings and conventions met with enthusiastic response today from John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce.

"It is a good idea and it can be worked out here if we get the co-operation of clubs and organizations in reporting their meeting and convention dates," Routzon said.

He added that the system is already in operation in other cities where it is helping to prevent duplication of meetings.

The idea, proposed by the Symposiarchs, a group of college fraternity men, calls for a community calendar which would be in charge of the Chamber of Commerce. Meeting plans would be cleared through the set-up at the Chamber of Commerce with information on meetings available to organizations without charge.

Routzon said the proposal would be submitted to the Chamber of Commerce board at its meeting next Tuesday night.

CITY CLEAN-UP DRIVE SWINGS TO FIFTH WARD

City Crews Fall Behind Under Heavy Rubbish Collections; Finish Up Monday.

The city's annual spring clean-up campaigns swung into the Fifth Ward this afternoon a half day behind schedule, Lester Linham, garbage disposal superintendent, reported.

Linham said due to an increase in the amount of rubbish gathered in the Fourth Ward the clean-up crew, scheduled to finish that area yesterday did not complete the ward until this noon.

He predicted that with the crews taxed to capacity during the next two days it was doubtful if the Sixth Ward which is scheduled to be completed tomorrow would be finished and intimated that the workmen would probably finish the job in that district Monday.

Meanwhile Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger joined the Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Association of Commerce in the plea for co-operation in observance of the clean-up fire-prevention campaign being sponsored by the organizations.

He urged the adoption of a building code by the city to protect against fires and reduce the annual fire losses.

Informally Speaking...

The betrothal was revealed recently, but as yet the couple hasn't set a date for the nuptials....Martha, who is from Sunbury, Pa., is employed by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company in New York City, while Rex (whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Beal) is an employe of the J. C. Penney company in that city.

Seneff....Incidentally, both these poems appeared in The Mansfield News-Journal this past year.

THE SPORTS PREDICTIONS of Dick Stobbs (youngest son of Coach and Mrs. T. W. Stobbs of Wittenberg college in Springfield) seem to be quite accurate, and they were especially interesting to us the other day because they contained something about a Mansfield boy, Ed Chatlain. When questioned about the outcome of the Wittenberg-Bowling Green baseball game, Dick (who is just 3) announced that Wittenberg would win, with Chatlain bringing in the runs.... And sure enough, the Springfield college did win, 11 to 10—with a single by Chatlain scoring the winning run....By the way, did you know that Ed is a member of the varsity football, basketball and baseball teams? Other interests which make his days busy ones are his presidency of Pick and Pen (junior men's honorary society), a job in the college business office and membership in the Shifters club as well as Phi Gamma Delta fraternity....Oh yes, and he teaches gym every morning at a Springfield high school....His parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Chatlain, Olivesburg road.

Another busy Mansfield student these days is Margaret Alice Wigton, who's preparing for her graduation from St. Vincent's school of nursing at St. Vincent's hospital in Toledo....The commencement exercises will be an event of May 18....Perhaps you recall that Margaret won the first honor four year scholarship upon her graduation from St. Peter's high school in 1936....But she went to Hollywood, Cal., that year for pre-nurse's training at Emmaculate Heart college before going to St. Vincent's the following year....She's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Wigton, and an active member of the glee club at the school.

MRS. HARRIET G. MANSFIELD and her daughter, Mrs. Walter C. Stevens, entrained yesterday for New York City, where they plan to do some shopping and take in the new shows....Mrs. Mansfield will remain there for a month visiting with friends, while her daughter is returning to Mansfield at the end of a week....It is with reluctance that we bid goodbye to Mrs. John Owens, South Main street, today....She left early this morning to join her husband in Wichita, Kan....Mr. Owens, who has been in that mid-western city for several months, is employed by the Spear Government Aircraft corporation there.

She Loved Him, But Lost

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

There are some men in this world who do not value a love so unselfish that there is no such work as "NO" in its vocabulary.

The girl who writes the following letter states the case much better that I or anyone else writing along the same lines could sum it up:

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"I am coming to you for suggestions, as I am much troubled, and what I have been through is undermining my health. I read your column daily, so I shall watch for your answer. I don't want you to write me personally because the family might see the letter.

"I've been going with a man for the past four years. I was devoted to him and in that time I must say he has never hurt my feelings. I've been absolutely true to him, and during those four years I never accepted any attentions from any other man. I even dropped my girl friends because he expected my exclusive companionship.

"Whatever he suggested for me to do I always did, to please him. He didn't want me to spend any money on presents, for he said it was a waste of money. He didn't think I should buy expensive, or even good-looking clothes, and I agreed just to please him. My whole life was planned not to give him a moment's displeasure.

"He had a terribly hard job and as he is the oldest of his family and they needed his help very much, I urged him to give them more of his pay, and I even chipped in and gave him part of my pay envelope, for I lived at home and Mom was very liberal about letting me keep most of mine. I was willing to wait years for him, until he could afford to marry. I loved him so much.

Deep down in my heart I knew I was doing wrong when I gave in to his pleading that an engagement is as binding as marriage, but I'm just a one-man girl, and I believed everything he told me. After that he began going with another girl, and he has told me that he doesn't want to see me any more. I asked him why, and he said I was not his type of woman.

"I asked him what he meant and why he thinks he loves this other girl more than me. The inference is that I gave myself to him and she does not believe in that.

"What shall I do? It's so hard for me after four years, to gather up the broken pieces of my life and go on. I can't get him out of my mind. I would do anything to get him back.

DESPAIRING."

You'll have to force yourself to get this man out of your mind and take an interest in everything which will help you to forget. He belongs to the "gimme" type, and from your own account of him he is nothing but a monument of selfishness and egoism. If you married him, you'd probably spend the rest of your life wondering why you ever did it.

Please acquire some of this young man's selfishness 'til the wound hurts less. Get the becoming clothes he never wanted you to have. Join all kinds of clubs and organizations, where you'll meet new people. Join a bowling club; the good hard exercise will help you to forget. Invite people to your home, be popular and don't sit around mooning over the best luck that ever happened to you—the loss of a thoroughly selfish, unreliable young man.

Pirate Bars.

Pirate Bars will steal the honors at any occasion. Make with 14 graham crackers, one-half teaspoon salt, one and three-fourths cups dates, three well-beaten eggs, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one cup chopped nutmeats and one cup brown sugar. Crumble crackers fine and mix with salt, baking powder and add chopped pitted dates and nuts. Beat the eggs and sugar together and combine the two mixtures, mixing thoroughly. Turn into well-buttered shallow pan. Bake in 400 degrees F. oven for 20-25 minutes. Cut into bars while warm. Makes 12-16 bars.

SUPPER SHOOTS

BUCYRUS—Two special events which have been designated as "Supper Shoots" will be held at the Bucyrus Gun club May 10 and 17. There will be a 50-bird program in two 25-bird events. Entries will include targets and the supper and members are invited to bring their wives or friends.

In Japan, salt is extracted almost entirely from brine and refined by means of artificial heating.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I think you all have met my daughter-in-law, Mary Veritzen, the potential star of this production," he said, and at the word "potential" my spirits, which had risen decidedly at his theatrical welcome of her, traveled rapidly downward.

"How do you do, everybody!" she caroled—there is no other word to describe the timbre of her voice—"I hope you are all as thrilled as I am over the chance to work in my aunt's play."

She wafted me an airy kiss from the tips of her fingers, and went on.

"But please, Father Veritzen," she put out her hands to him with pretty appeal. "Let's not talk about stars. The word does not fit me, and I don't like it anyway."

"As you wish, my dear," he said, and for the minute I turned my attention to the players grouped in front of us, each pair of eyes fixed upon Mary with widely varying expressions.

The men, except the leading man, who was to play, opposite Mary, were openly admiring. But the leading man's eyes held an appraising look which, I knew, meant he was wondering how he could best secure his share—and more, if possible—of the "center of the stage," when he was pitted against the girl who seemed to be Fortune's favorite in this production of her husband's father.

Two of the women, smart, modish, modernly brittle, were watching Mary with eyes in which lurked envy and jealously. That they naturally resented an unknown being placed in so favored a position, it was plain, although they cleverly masked their feelings with smiles at her sallies.

One, the youngest of the group, the daughter of one of Philip Veritzen's former stars, who had only a "bit" part, regarded Mary with openly adoring eyes, but it was the expression of the oldest woman of the group which intrigued me most.

But Philip Veritzen was speaking, and I focused my attention on him.

"We are all here now," he said, 'except the Princess Olina. Is there some reason for her absence?"

Porch parties, lawn parties and picnics will be in full swing before long, so here is some help in the food department.

Chocolate Ice-box cake is a good standby for al fresco guests. The recipe given here is for 12 portions, and calls for four squares of unsweetened chocolate, one-half cup sugar, dash of salt, one-fourth cup hot water, tablespoon cold water, teaspoon granulated gelatin, four egg yolks, teaspoon vanilla, four stiffly-beaten egg whites, one-half cup cream, whipped, and 36 lady fingers. Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sugar, salt, and hot water, stirring until sugar is dissolved and mixture blended Add cold water to gelatin and mix. Add to hot chocolate mixture and stir until gelatin is dissolved, then cook until mixture is smooth and well thickened. Remove from boiling water; add egg yolks, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Place over boiling water and cook two minutes, stirring constantly. Add vanilla; cool. Fold into egg whites. Chill. Fold in whipped cream. Line sides and bottom of mold with waxed paper, and sides of mold. Add thin layer Arrange lady fingers on bottom of chocolate mixture, then arrange lady fingers and chocolate mixture in alternate layers, topping with chocolate mixture. Cut off lady fingers around sides of mold and arrange cut pieces on chocolate mixture. Chill 12 to 24 hours in refrigerator. If desired, add one-half cup finely-cut walnut meats to chocolate mixture before turning into mold.

Welcome Company.

Brownies are always welcome company. To make 24, use three-fourths cup sifted cake flour, one-half teaspoon baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-third cup butter or other shortening, two squares unsweetened chocolate, one cup sugar, two well-beaten eggs, one-half cup chopped walnut meats and one teaspoon vanilla. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt and sift again. Add butter to melted chocolate and mix well. Add sugar gradually to eggs, beating well, then chocolate, and blend. Add nuts and vanilla. Bake in greased pan (8x8x2 inches) for 35 minutes in 350 degrees F. oven. Cut squares, remove from pan and cool.

PROTECTING DELPHINIUMS AGAINST DROUGHT

Delphiniums are very susceptible to injury from drought, therefore, whether the soil in which they are to be planted is light or heavy in texture, it should be dug and turned to a considerable depth, and have humus added to it to keep it loose and friable and give it added moisture-retaining capacity.

As shown in the Garden-Graph, the young delphinium plants should be set firmly in the soil with the crown below the surface. This is important, since it helps to keep the new roots from drying out before the plant has become established.

The soil about delphinium plants should be lightly cultivated and then covered with a light top dressing. By thus keeping the plants mulched it will discourage weed growth, keep the ground cool and thereby conserve the moitsure in it for the use of the plants themselves.

Brilliant Shades Flattering

By MME. QUI VIVE

Silvered tresses are fashionable. They are no beauty handship to a woman who has kept her youthful complexion and graceful, lithe figure. But it seems as if nobody wants them.

When all the hair is white it is the dickens of a job to keep it dyed. Every few weeks there are tell-tale shafts peeking out from the scalp. Unless one is willing to spend one's life in a beauty shop getting the necessary touch-up, it isn't worth while. To be resigned to the snowy crop is to be relieved of care and expense.

White hair is a quality of beauty that is dimmed by drab attire. It comes to life and glitters like snow in the sunlight when a bit of gay color is worn. Black, yes, but only when it is accented with some compelling color—deep rose, jade green or French blue.

When white is worn the older sister should tint her lips with rich coloring, touch the eyelids with faint rouge. Without a bit of make-up she'll look washed out. These are the days when a woman must be vivid.

As the white-haired lovely can wear black or white, she can also glory in delicate pastel shades, which are particularly effective for evening. Mauve, periwinkle, dove grey, certain shades of rose, but never yellow, which is likely to gild her hair and make her skin appear sallow. Pearls are the loveliest of all jewels for her; they are flattering.

Velvets become her. Fabrics of shining surface, like heavy satins and brocades, make her look older. It is especially necessary that hats should be of flattering fabrics. A shining straw is no beauty help. If she has not reached the faded period, a cerise hat looks stunning, especially if she has brown eyes.

Browns, greens and greys—except dove grey—she should avoid like the plague.

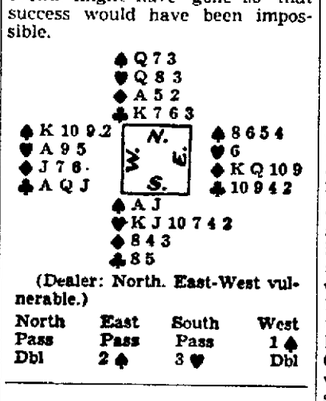
"The Authority on Authorities"

DEFEAT TO VICTORY

Who doesn't get a kick out of changing impending defeat into victory? It tastes all the sweeter when it is not expected. And how much better still, if it is more than a mere borderline triumph, with an extra trick attached, when events might have gone so that success would have been impossible.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
Dbl	2 ♠	3 ♥	Dbl

North reckoned that he took no great chance with his double, after having passed on his first turn, as it would show his partner a hand slightly weaker than a minimum opening bid. It was all August P. Jurgensen, in the South, needed to know a heart bid by him at the range of three involved no great risk. West's double, based on general principles and a size-up of his aggressive opponents, whose habits he knew well, was none too sound nevertheless.

West's greatest hard luck was in finding his partner with no spade honor, so his lead of the 10 presented declarer with a trick for the J. With a diamond lead, South could have lost two tricks in that suit, one each in the others. But his contract was safe after the spade opening, and he went to work for an extra trick. He led a heart to the A, took the heart return with the J, led to the club A, let the diamond J, covered by the Q, win, took the diamond return with the A, then built a double squeeze.

Two heart tricks, the spade A and then two more hearts did the business. As the last was played, he also had a club and a diamond, the dummy the spade Q and two clubs. West had to hold his spade K to guard the Q, so tossed away from his club Q-J, whereupon the spade Q was discarded from dummy. Now East was squeezed. If he threw the diamond 10, South's 8 would score, so he kept it and tossed a club from the 10-9. Then the club K dropped the defenders' last cards in that suit and the club 7 took the final trick.

HOROSCOPE

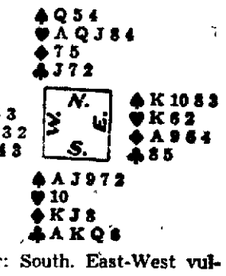
For Saturday, May 11.

An eventful and memorable day, with much developing of an unlooked-for and surprising turn, is forecast. While it is probable that there may be much solid gain and accomplishment in commonplace or workaday activities, thrilling adventures may relate to romance, social or domestic affairs, or possibly in connection with art, literature or other creative expression. All such elements and inspiration will be under high stimuli, lucrative and gratifying.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year of unexpected and surprising developments in their affairs, with unforeseen factors for accomplishment, happiness, perhaps drama and thrills, swinging into the limelight with abruptness and commotion. Romance, peculiar personal intrigues or sudden attachments are among the probabilities, and these call for circumspect and alert conduct.

A child born on this day may be extremely or unusually talented in business, literature, music, art or drama, or have outstanding creative expressions of originality, which may take sensational forms.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

What principle of play can enable the declarer to make his contract here, after he finds out that East has a mean trump holding against him?

600 ON WPA IN COUNTY TOLD OF VOTING RIGHTS

Administrator Says to Vote as They Choose Because It's Their Own Business.

More than 600 WPA workers in Richland county had been notified today that they are entitled to vote as they choose—or not at all.

The voting rights were set forth in a five-point statement issued in Washington by Col. F. C. Harrington, national administrator of WPA, copies of which were sent to all WPA workers, James L. Kelly, Columbus, manager of the central Ohio WPA district said.

"In order that there can be no misunderstanding of Works Progress Administration rules about voting rights of employes, regulations of this administration entitle you to vote or not to vote, as you choose," Harrington's statement said.

He warned that no one either associated with WPA or from any other source could have them fired or change their wages because they do not belong to a political party.

"It is against the law for anyone to ask you for money for any political campaign," Harrington emphasized.

He added, "Voting is your own business. Keep it that way."

"If you are employed in an administrative or supervisory capacity you may vote as you please and express privately your opinion on political subjects. However, it is against the law for persons who are employed in an administrative or supervisory capacity to engage in political activity or take an active part or use their influence directly or indirectly in political management or political campaigns or in political conventions."

His statement said that every effort would be made to arrange the working schedules so workers would not lose work time for voting purposes.

In conclusion, his announcement warned, that he would not tolerate any violation of the regulations set forth in the statement.

OF HEAVEN'S BENEDICTION++

CHAPTER VI.

Rod sent orchids and telephoned, sounding quite cheerful. He inquired casually about Jim.

Brooke spent a quiet pensive day, going for a walk after lunching alone in the coffee shop adjoining the lobby. But Fifth avenue, thickly peopled on a sunny Saturday afternoon, seemed to isolate her and increase her loneliness. The dreaded late afternoon to come was comparable to going into battle. Yet no matter how inferior or frightened she felt those feelings must not be conveyed to others.

Though she spoke to herself with firmness, only a lame courage come to her aid. The thought that Rod was a susceptible young man being lured by money angered her. She had to believe in both him and herself! Jim and her father, both by-standers, analyzed coldly and cynically. What she needed most, Brooke felt, was Grace's wholesale "It's all nonsense!"

Returning to the hotel, she dressed with special care. She put on the black suit and chartreuse satin blouse, the tall-heeled black suede pumps and the crazy little black hat, feeling better as she pinned the orchids to the lapel of the short black coat. If a graph had been kept of her feelings for the past two days, she thought, it would be a most irregular one.

Rod called and she said she would be down directly. As she approached him, his dark eyes went over her keenly, then approvingly.

Please be kind, she thought. Don't put me on the defensive. Never before have I needed your kindness and your love more.

"You look marvelous!" Rod said as if he didn't expect her to meet his approval.

"Thank you, and for the orchids, too. I feel very festive," she said. She thought: I'm lying. I don't feel festive; I'm scared.

In the taxi he held her hand and looked at her with tender detachment.

"You're going to meet a lot of people," he said almost paternally. "Of course at these things you don't meet half the people there and the ones you do meet don't remember you the next time they see you. We'll go to dinner afterward and I've got tickets to the theater."

She said lightly, laughing a little, "Don't make me feel so small-town, Rod!"

Forcing a brittle little laugh to accompany hers, he said, "Have I? I'm sorry. But I wish some one had taken me in hand when I first came. I was horribly small-town. Barney did finally."

"He's been very nice to you, hasn't he?"

"More than that. He's made everything possible for me at the office and outside the office." He smiled. "The fair-haired lad—or something. And there are people who are jealous, who dislike me for his interest. He's hard-boiled, very much the self-made man—less than a high school education. But I admire him—because he's on top."

Brooke looked at him. "It's so good being with you, again . . ."

"And with you," leaning over to kiss her lightly, "looking so lovely." Then abruptly, as the taxi drew up at the curb in front of a tall apartment house, "We're here."

* * *

The large room, hazy with smoke and already filled with more people than it could comfortably accommodate, was so startlingly modern, the furniture all angles, that Brooke thought she had come upon a movie set. How comically incongruous was the bald, fat little man in his own home! And Brooke who liked to live more with the old than with the new, felt uncomfortable.

"Some one small and dark and sharp-featured, with good teeth?"

There were several women who fitted Jim's very general description of Irene Davies. Brooke glanced around, meeting strange eyes everywhere until, far across the room and tall enough to be seen over other heads, Julian Carlton smiled at her. When she tried to smile, her mouth was trembling but she knew that even so far away the keen eyes in the sunburned face must see gratitude.

Barney Glass came to them from another room. His fat florid face screwed up in a grin of welcome, his bald head, his thin legs supporting his heavy body, made Brooke think of Humpty Dumpty. "I think I shall like Humpty Dumpty," she thought.

* * *

Rod introduced them. Barney's voice was rough but good-humored. "I've heard a lot about you, Brooke. You haven't had a drink yet? Won't do! Some fisherman," and glanced up at Rod, "you've got here. Had all the luck last summer."

Brooke nodded. "I heard."

Barney said, "The only big fish I got was the one I helped somebody else pull in."

Rod said, "He's modest, Brooke. He keeps the taxidermist both busy and wealthy."

"See what I can do about getting you a drink," Barney said.

They followed him, Rod saying, "Hello" to various people but not stopping to chat.

Stopping, turning as Rod did also, Brooke saw a small, slender but well-rounded figure sheathed in gold lame, a small brown hat edged with mink over a small, smooth, shining dark head. Her features were irregular, her skin unroughed, her small eyes bright and animated, her vivid mouth parted into a brilliant smile. Jim had been right, Brooke thought. Irene Davies was chic and had good teeth. And she could probably turn her brilliant smile on and off at will.

To Rod, "Hello, dear. How are you? Do you know . . ."

But Rod introduced Brooke first.

Irene said, "I'm glad to know you. I've heard so much about you."

Warmth, friendliness, charm and laughter flowed from Irene Davies as he introduced the little group about her. "She holds them together," Brooks thought. "How can one be other than what one is inside? How can one talk animatedly of nothing in particular, nothing important?"

Irene was saying to a striking-looking blond, "Why, it's nothing, darling. If you fall down, what does it matter? Snow is soft. And I tell you, it's the most divine sensation . . . and the place has everything, simply everything . . ." She turned to Brooke. "I hope we shall see a lot of each other and that Rod will bring you to see me. No special invitation. Just phone and drop in. I like people to drop in."

Dismissing Brooke, she turned to Rod. "Do you recall what we were discussing last Saturday? I know that positively . . ."

Brooke heard no more. For Julian Carlton suddenly appeared at her side, saying, "I think Barney is still looking for that drink, thinking that you and Rod are following. Now if you'll follow me . . ."

* * *

Glad to get away from Irene and her listening clique, Brooke followed Julian to the kitchen. He helped himself to bottles, found ice, clean glasses, glancing at her to say, "We know each other only unofficially. How do you like your Martini? Very dry?"

"I don't know the difference."

He laughed as he poured the mixture into the glasses. Then, "Sorry. No olives." Giving her a glass, he looked at her directly. "Will you have an unembellished Martini with me here in the kitchen?" Raising his glass, he said what, if it were meant to be flippant, fell short of its goal! "To you—of course."

Part of her mind she had left in the crowded adjoining room with Rod and a vivacious, talkative woman; only part of her mind was in this brightly lighted kitchen with a man who stirred her curiosity to the point of wanting to ask him questions about himself.

If his next remark were intended to flatter, it too fell short of its goal. It seemed to Brooke that with all sincerity he said, his well-cut mouth curving, "You are very lovely." Then, "What part of New Hampshire is your home?"

"Chatham. Do you know it?"

"I've driven through it many times on my way to Maine. Many fine trees, white houses, the usual mill, and a traffic officer . . ."

She smiled. "I can't let you speak disparagingly of our Mr. Ben. We have a curfew in Chatham, too."

"What did you do there?"

"I was secretary to a doctor . . ."

"Must be interesting. You were . . .?"

"I have a position here now."

IT'S TOO GOOD

BALTIMORE—(AP)—A brewery labored long to produce a super superb ale. But complaints of "too cloudy" and "a funny taste" poured in when it was marketed.

The trouble, said the brewer masters, is that people today just don't know a superlative ale when they taste it. So sales were halted, and the ale saved for banquets of appreciative gourmets.

No More Waking Up Mornings Feeling Achy, Tired & Dizzy

Pennsylvania Railroad Telegraph Operator Feels Like Different Person Since Vendol Relieved Constipation. Advises Everyone to Try Famous Medicine.

MR. EDMOND S. GRAY

"I was a victim of constipation which caused no end of other troubles, not the least of which was starting the day by awakening with a headache, feeling dizzy, tired, achy, tongue coated, horrible taste in my mouth, and the sight of food almost nauseated me; then what little I ate disagreed with my stomach causing sourness, gas, 'heartburn,' acid risings, and feeling like I had a lump in my throat," says Mr. Edmond S. Gray of 462 North Mulberry street, Mansfield, who is formerly of Newcomerstown, where he is widely acquainted.

"Hearing so much praise for Vendol, I got some and a box of Vendol laxative tablets, and I never tried any other medicine that promoted such smooth, natural complete bowel movements, and now there is no waking up with all those awful feelings, but instead I roll out feeling grand and ready for my day's work; then at night I enjoy restful sleep. It's a great experience to find relief like this and I'm thankful to Vendol for all of it, and hope many people suffering like I did will give it a chance to help them, too."

That is what just one well known citizen living here at home says about Vendol, but all around town and nearby vicinity you'll find ministers, merchants, farmers, school teachers, railroad men, mechanics, and their wives, sons and daughters, taking Vendol and getting the same grand relief. So, if you suffer like this, give Vendol a chance to help you, too.

Come to Central Drug Store, corner Main and 4th Streets, and learn all the facts about Vendol without obligation. All leading druggists sell this popular medicine.

Farmers Assured of Parity Payments, Benefit Checks

HOUSE GIVES O. K. ON FARM PROGRAM FUND

Approves $212,000,000 For Parities and $85,000,000 For Crop Payment.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—House capitulation to the senate assured farmers today of parity payments and other regular benefit checks next year, but again focused congressional attention on the status of federal finances.

The fiscal problem bobbed up when the house yesterday approved $212,000,000 for parity payments and an $85,000,000 increase in automatic appropriations of $100,000,000 for disposal of surplus farm crops, largely through use of the food stamp plan.

Those funds, already voted by the senate, boosted the total of the 1941 agricultural department supply bill to more than $900,000,000, plus $90,000,000 in RFC loans for farm tenants and the rural electrification administration.

As a result, most house members agreed that congress might have to raise the statutory federal debt limit of $45,000,000,000 or, in the waning days of a controversy-laden session, push through a new tax bill.

But one administration leader who preferred anonymity, hinted that President Roosevelt might have several plans in mind to avoid both issues. No one was even considering the possibility that he might veto the big bill because it exceeded his budget recommendations of about $788,000,000.

Plans New Hearing.

Although the senate was in recess, its special government reorganization committee scheduled additional hearings on President Roosevelt's fourth reorganization program and a vote by 4 p. m.

This plan, involving among other things transfer the civil aeronautics authority to the commerce department, was set aside by the house Wednesday. It will become operative next month unless the senate also rejects it.

Word spread in the senate that Vice President Garner was working behind the scenes against the president's proposal.

The senate yesterday voted 45 to 36 to end treasury purchases of foreign silver. House action, however, was uncertain.

The house began discussing senate increases in the farm bill after it rejected a senate-house conference report on transportation legislation to bring water carriers under federal regulation like railroads and motor vehicles.

The members instructed their conferees to reinsert provisions intended to protect railroad labor, give farm products lower rates in some instances and to permit water carriers to lower rates to meet rail competition.

2 Men on Same Job As City Inspector Still Defies Ouster

The city today had two men on the same job of inspector on the West Fourth street water project.

Mayor William J. Locke today appointed L. L. Kochenderfer to the position while Albert E. Hancock, notified of his dismissal last week, refused to quit.

Locke said Kochenderfer, who had been named sidewalk inspector until it was learned that WPA would not begin sidewalk construction until later this summer, was appointed temporarily until Hancock's legal status as a civil service employe could be determined.

He said Hancock, hired five years ago, had been discharged after the civil service commission had notified him that no further payroll vouchers would be approved. Hancock however, refused to leave his job on the basis that he was legally appointed under civil service regulations.

Burton Urges 'Common Sense' War Stand

SPEAKS TO 400 AT G. O. P. RALLY IN MANSFIELD

Senate Aspirant Warns U. S. Can't Go Through Another War Without Bankruptcy.

The United States probably could not get through another world war without bankruptcy and it must use every common sense plan to keep out of the European conflict, Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, Republican senatorial candidate, asserted last night at a rally at G. O. P. headquarters here.

Burton spoke to about 400 persons at the second county Republican rally of the primary campaign.

Martin L. Davey, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, will talk at John Simpson junior high school at 8 p. m. tonight. His talk here will be sponsored by Davey backers in the city, the county Democratic organization refusing to sanction a rally for a state candidate.

"We must keep out of war now. If we get into this one we won't have enough left to maintain our living standards," Burton declared last night.

"A common sense peace policy, a strong national defense, and a policy that will keep our navy united are the best guards against war," he said.

"It is cheaper to spend a reasonable amount to build our army and navy than to fight a war. The last war cost us a million dollars an hour for every hour we were in it, but the cost was spread over a number of years," the mayor continued.

"Today the nation is in no position to fight a war. We would have to borrow our way through. Inflation and destruction of our savings would follow. In 1917 our total national debt was only five billion dollars. Now it is more than 40 billion, and another burden of perhaps 20 billion for war would be too much to bear.

"The number one virtue the Republicans must insist on is economy in every branch of government. The only way for us to turn from waste to saving is to put someone in there who knows how to save—some one who believes in economy and will practice it," Burton said.

"We can't change a waster to a saver. Seven years of the New Deal have taught us that. It is only a common sense policy in any business to give a man a second chance to make good and if he fails after that, replace him with some one else.

"The New Deal has tried pump priming, but it has failed too. The only way 'priming' will work is to connect the pump of national income to American initiative and enterprise and let private business and industry have their freedom to build."

Burton praised Gov. John W. Bricker and Senator Robert A. Taft for their stand on economy.

Burton was introduced by Mayor William J. Locke of Mansfield. The meeting was in charge of Atty. Stuart H. Cramer, secretary of the county Republican executive committee, and candidate for probate judge.

Cramer introduced more than 25 candidates for county offices and Wallace W. Barnhill of Ashland, seeking the G. O. P. nomination for state senator.

Up and Down THE STREET

No date has been set for the spring opening of the Y. M. C. A. camp at Camp Nelson Dodd, near Brinkhaven, but already Ralph B. Chapman, "Y" secretary, has received a request for the use of the camp for two days in June. The request came from the Mansfield board of education and public school principals who each year "rough it" at the camp for two days before schools close for the summer.

* * *

Republican leaders were surprised and a little chagrined to find a stack of Democratic probate judge campaign cards in the G. O. P. headquarters, with the collection of Republican literature. Questioning a man in the office, the party leaders were told that one of the Democratic candidates "was in here campaigning and left his cards for us."

The new Bromfield book, which ran serially in the Cosmopolitan magazine some time ago, is just off the press and Mansfielders are scrambling for first editions. The name has been changed from "Bombay Nights" to "Night In Bombay," and the book form is considerably longer than the magazine story. And of course the story is unexpurgated in book form. The book is dedicated to "Jean White with the love, gratitude and devotion of all the Bromfields." Miss White is the English governess who has managed the Bromfield household for many years and is affectionately known to all its members as "Nanny."

When the Commercial B bowling league elected officers for the 1940-41 season at the annual banquet and meeting last night, it didn't take long to do the trick. They took a standing vote and elected Atty. John F. Kramer president—and he wasn't even at the dinner. And then the task of selecting a secretary-treasurer was next on the program. The keglers unanimously re-elected Roy Vaughn. It marks the 11th consecutive year he has held those positions.

TAKEN ON RIDE

Four Persons Held After Man Complains of Beating.

AKRON—(U.P.)—From a hospital bed, Frank Ambrozott of Barberton told police today that two men and two women asked him to go for an automobile ride last night and then beat him, robbed him of $28 and pushed him from the car. He said he had been acquainted with them previously.

Two men from Zanesville were jailed in connection with his story. The women, one from Zanesville, also were being held on suspicion.

Ambrozott said he was driven to a place near Clinton, O., and hit over the head with a rubber hammer before he was robbed and abandoned. He walked back to Barberton.

WOMEN BOWLERS DINE AND ELECT

Moose League Re-Names Pauline Shively as President.

Closing the season's activities, the Women's Bowling league of the Mansfield lodge, 341, Loyal Order of Moose, held a banquet last night at the Spanish Tavern, near Crestline.

Thirty-eight team members attended the banquet, an annual affair.

During a business meeting, the league re-elected Pauline Shively as president. New officers elected are Thelma Linster, vice president; Ruth Roesch, secretary, and Idella Eberhart, treasurer.

LIGHT PRIMARY VOTE INDICATED

Only 70 Absent Voters' Ballots Filed Compared to 300 For Primaries in 1938.

Only 70 absent voters ballots had been cast today with the county board of elections, indicating one of the lightest primary votes in recent years.

The absent voters' deadline was noon today, but requests for ballots had to be submitted to the board of elections last night.

More than 300 county residents voted by the absent method in the primary of 1938, while there were 106 absentee ballots cast four years ago.

Election board representatives attributed the light vote this time to the lack of interest among voters and the failure of either party organization to concentrate on getting absent and sick ballots out to voters unable to go to the polls next Tuesday.

On the basis of the absentee voting, Democratic and Republican vote will be about even in the county at the primary. The same number of absentee ballots for each party had been cast today.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State George M. Neffner, said today he expected 1,600,000 Ohioans to vote. This number would be only slightly more than the primary vote of two years ago which was 1,569,818.

MERCURY DROPS BACK DOWN TO 29

It'll Be Cool Again Tomorrow, Showers Due Tonight.

It was practically fur coat weather again last night when the temperature dropped to 29 degrees. There was a heavy frost which did little damage, farm experts said.

Sixty-two degrees was a high point on the thermometer yesterday, and the average for the 24 hour period was only 45, which was almost 14 degrees below normal. It was 61 at noon today.

Another drop in temperature is forecast for tomorrow, preceded by light showers tonight.

TERRIER, IMPRISONED TWO DAYS IN GROUNDHOG HOLE, RELEASED

A small black and white fox terrier dog that got too ambitious in his digging for a groundhog had been rescued today after he was entombed for two days under the stone abutment of a bridge in Lincoln Heights.

Whining pitifully and with one of his hind legs injured, the little dog was released by Clyde Moore, county road maintenance superintendent, who was called to the scene by deputy sheriffs.

Moore had to chip a hole through a block of sandstone to free the animal which ran away before Moore could learn who owned the dog. Pupils in the Lincoln Heights school told Moore they had heard the dog barking for two days, but at first they couldn't find him. Persons in the neighborhood located him and reported to the sheriff's office.

Moore said the dog apparently had dug his way into a groundhog den and that the entrance filled with dirt as he clawed his way upward toward the stone abutment.

"When I got to the bridge, the dog was poking his nose through a crack in the rock. He disappeared as I began to dig so he must have had plenty of room in the hole," Moore said.

"As soon as he was loose, he ran up the road. It didn't look like he was any the worse for his experience except that he limped on one hind leg," the road superintendent added.

NAVY HEARINGS

Congress Plans Quick Inquiry Into Warship Situation.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congress intends to find out whether the United States is getting a "navy second to none" with a minimum of delay.

As Europe's war neared an "all-out" stage, the house naval committee put at the top of its schedule a thoroughgoing survey of the warship building and fleet aviation programs.

Announcing that hearings would start next week, Chairman Vinson (G., Ga.) said last night that the purpose of the extraordinary inquiry was to make sure the nation's sea forces would be "dominant" on the oceans and in the air over them.

There were signs, he continued, that the fleet building program was not proceeding as rapidly as it should, despite the fact that congress had voted every dollar requested by the navy.

Advisability of putting the fleet construction on a 24-hour-a-day footing would be considered, he said.

GETS $9,000

County Receives New Share of Gasoline Tax Funds.

The county today received $9,000 in state gasoline tax funds which County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said will be distributed to the 18 townships on the basis of $500 each.

Representing the first allocation of gas tax money of the year, Wolfe said the money must be used for road building and repairs.

STATE TO REST IN MURDER CASE

Ends Testimony In Trial for Lancaster Guard Slaying.

LANCASTER—(U.P.)—The prosecution planned to wind up its case today in the first degree murder trial of William S. Hart, 18, Middletown, accused of murdering a guard at the State Boys Industrial school in an attempted escape last May 31.

A statement purportedly signed by Hart, admitting he participated in the crime, was introduced by the state through testimony of Lawrence Behrens, family officer at the school.

Hart and Robert E. Lee, also 18, Norwood, Mass., are accused of slaying Axel Stromstead, a tailor-guard at the school.

Victim Objects Arm Chewer Was "Utter Stranger."

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—W. G. Bollen reported to police that an utter stranger leaned over and bit him on the arm while they sat side by side in a labor union hall last night. The stranger then walked out of the hall.

Bollen went to a hospital for treatment of arm bite.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Speaking for Myself.

If I had my choice of reading the unexpurgated autobiographies of any six current figures in public life, I think I'd like curling up with the personal histories of: Arturo Toscanini, Sherman Billingsley, Adolf Hitler, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Greta Garbo and Owney Madden.

I think those photographers that snap your picture on Broadway and then chase you halfway up the block trying to thrust a handbill at you are dreadful nuisances, and I can't imagine why the police don't get after them. It's an embarrassing racket—and isn't there a law that forbids the taking of pictures at less than 13 or so feet without the subject's permission?

The new show at the Diamond Horseshoe, like the first one, is something not to miss. Very gay. . . . I love those new open-back taxicabs, but they certainly wreck a girl's coiffure. You get out of them looking like someone who had just met a hurricane. . . . I was just thinking of those producers in the old days who had horrors if their leading man married the leading woman. Now look at those box-office combinations: Lindsay and Stickney, Barrymore and Barrie, Lunt and Fontanne, Olivier and Leigh.

* * *

I wonder how many World's Fair officials suspect that the British purchasing agent's staff, now engaged in buying munitions and other local products for Allied consumption, is working out of an office in the British Pavilion, not the British building in Radio City? That's why that guard at the door to the Flushing exhibit. The French, I hear, are doing the same.

I love the Broadway automat. It's fun to get food out of the little boxes in the wall, and more fun to eat it at the tables near the window, where you can watch the characters go by.

Now that Saroyan's "The Time of Your Life," has won both the Pulitzer prize and the Critic's Circle prize, all I can say is that puts the Critics' prize in the same class with the Pulitzer prize.

* * *

I love Mexican food, but I have an idea I wouldn't like it in Mexico. . . . That reported "feud" backstage at "Too Many Girls," which delayed the curtain ten minutes, wasn't a feud. It was a fuse. Somebody's diction must have been bad. . . . More theaters should have game rooms like the one at the Little Carnegie, so you don't have to take your seat if you drop in while the feature is still on.

In London they even have rooms where you can write home to mother if you don't feel like seeing the Mickey Mouse.

Manhattan doormen—the kind who pace the midnight curbstones—are fascinating. Snappiest is Maurice, at Fefe's Monte Carlo (he wears a uniform like a musical comedy soldier). Bon Soir, at El Morocco, who is all done up in African robes, is I guess, the most glamorous; and Albino, at the Stork, whose uniform just looks like a doorman's, is the jolliest. Most rugged is Sailor Grande, who, dressed as a cop of the Gay Nineties era, guards Bill's Gay Nineties. And he has the greatest sense of authenticity. When he got the job, Hardy told him to wear a fake mustache. So Sailor, an ex-middleweight contender of 25 years ago, just grew a bushy one of his own.

* * *

I don't suppose I could get permission, but if Mr. Gibson didn't mind, I'd love to tour the World's Fair on a bicycle.

I've been wondering how the war abroad affected night club business here. A cafe owner said it helped. Not that business has been great, but it would have been worse, he said, if the war in Europe hadn't kept a number of big spenders on this side of the Atlantic.

I like the way Shirley Ross sings the words to tunes in "Higher and Higher."

* * *

I like Phil Harris' definition of Jack Benny's Rochester, "The Brooklyn Dodgers of the radio.... Oh, those movie producers and their happy endings! Now they've tacked a saccharine last chapter onto "Our Town" and they'll have to prove to me that it doesn't spoil the drama.

Those celluloid moguls must know that people pay money to see plays with unhappy endings, and spend money to buy books with unhappy endings—don't they think the same kind of people go to the movies?

Flora Robson, who looks so aged and dried up in "Ladies In Retirement," looks so surprisingly young and pleasant when you see her around town.

* * *

The murals in Colbert's restaurant are so diverting it's a wonder they don't take people's mind off the food.

Trees in the spring are so much more exciting in Manhattan than in the country.

The dancing Hartmans have installed a soda fountain in their home, and with it a series of concoctions whipped up out of their own diabolically inventive minds. The "Dorothy Kilgallen" sundae is vanilla ice cream, crushed strawberries, sliced bananas, whipped cream—and, I guess, a tummy ache.

Such weather, May obviously is meant for an open road and a fast car, not a city office and a slow typewriter.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Suggested future double-bill for the marquee collectors: "One Came Home" "And One Was Beautiful." . . .

One of the nice things about this town is its quaint attitude toward rain. There were six rainy nights called for in the script of "Lone Wolf Meets a Lady," and the director got five nights in a row exactly as he wanted them—no rain. The sixth night, when it rained, there was confusion until he could get the set covered with tarpaulins so he could go on working with studio rain. That's always the way here, no sense to anything . . .

Ranger Pete Crawford of the Texas Rangers, here for advisory duty on "Texas Rangers Ride Again," gives the low-down on how to spot a dude rider in the movies. . . The "key" is ringtail" horses. A "ringtail" swishes its tail in a circular motion—because its rider isn't sitting in the saddle properly . . . Pete opines that Gary Cooper knows his stuff.

* * *

The Jack Moss who produced "The Biscuit Eater" is the same Jack Moss who used to say no almost every time anybody asked anything about Gary Cooper. Cooper and Moss, the latter more or less in the background, were a "team" for seven years.

The association began, actually, when Cooper met Jack while he was making a movie in New York. Jack was an assistant director. The eastern studio closed shortly after that, and while Gary went hunting in Africa, Jack went hunting for a job. He still was hunting when Cooper returned and telephoned him. Cooper had learned he was suspended by Paramount, and he needed a go-between for negotiations. Moss took the job without pay as a friendly gesture. Two days later—these big silent men move slowly—Gary telephoned and said he had been thinking things over, and how would Jack like to be his manager in Hollywood?

Big Jack Moss came west. He's a heavy guy, and apparently he was heavy on the demands. First off, he yanked Cooper out of the cowboy rut, demanded and got the right to approve Cooper stories and directors. The lid blew off when he demanded "A Farewell to Arms" as a Cooper vehicle, but he got it. Then he hinted around that Gary might be good in comedy, too—that's how Cooper got into the fast company that made "Design for Living," and how he paved the way way toward further comedy assignments.

* * *

He gave up the Cooper management when the chance to produce dropped into his ample lap, but he's still the Cooper confidante and adviser, and Gary is still doing right well for a young fella.

So is Jack — "The Biscuit Eater" is a nice, touching, surefire picture about a boy and a dog, always good whether it's filmed on a sound stage or, more beautifully as here, in its actual locale down in Georgia. The picture ought to do things for little Billy Lee.

A recent grand jury and a large amount of other county work have made it impossible to see many of my Democratic friends. My experience in frequent contact with juvenile matters in the Probate Court, my legal experience and record as a public servant is the basis upon which I ask your support in this coming primary.

MARKET GREETS WAR NEWS WITH BUYING RUSH

Steels, Aircrafts and Coppers Bound Up 3 Points; Foreign Issues Are Weak.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK —(AP)— Heavy selling swept the New York stock exchange today after a brief morning buying flurry in such "war brides" as steels and aviations. Early advances were mostly swept away, and several leading issues tumbled $1 to $5 a share.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The stock market today greeted the German blitzkrieg on the low countries with a buying rush for "war babies" and selling of rails, motors and rubbers.

Steels, aircrafts and coppers bounded up as much as 3 points. Top gains were reduced later.

Chief gainers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Boeing, Anaconda, and Baldwin Locomotive.

Bonds were mixed, with foreign issues weak. The British "free" pound sterling slumped to a new record low in New York. Authorities closed the Amsterdam securities market, but London and Paris were open and prices in these centers dropped.

Most commodities took on "boom" aspects.

On the home business front, improvement in some heavy industrial lines continued to occupy the thought of those looking for signs of an industrial upswing.

Lucas Growing, It Gets 29 Acres and Six New Families

County commissioners cleared the way today for the village of Lucas to add 29 acres to its area and at least a half dozen families to its population.

Commissioners approved a petition of the village council for the annexation of three tracts of land to provide gas and water service for about six families who live in the districts. The tracts are north of the present village corporation limits.

Action on the petition was taken after a hearing at the courthouse failed to bring any protests. The commissioners' resolution will be sent back to the Lucas council for approval and then to the county recorder and secretary of state for final approval.

Most of the land included in the proposed addition is owned by Harvey Wallace and George Bright. Others own smaller parcels of it. Annexation proceedings were handled by Atty. Van Cook of Mansfield, law director for Lucas.

LEAGUE MAKES ENDORSEMENTS

Richland Labor Non-Partisan Group Plans Mass Meeting to Hear Bigelow.

Announcing plans for a mass meeting to be held in Central park tomorrow, the Richland county unit of Labor's Non-Partican League today reported its slate of endorsements of candidates for the May 14 primary election.

At the meeting scheduled for 2 p. m. tomorrow, Herbert S. Bigelow of Cincinnati, sponsor of the old-age pension plan defeated at the election last fall and Democratic candidate for the U. S. senate nomination, will be the principal speaker, M. J. Beery, president, announced.

Beery said the Richland county group had decided not to endorse any candidate for governor. It did, however, name eight other candidates, all Democratic, including Ralph C. Lutz, of Lexington, and Samuel A. Anderson of Newark, opponents for the 17th congressional district nomination.

Other endorsements were William H. Wetro of Ironton, lieutenant governor; Joseph T. Ferguson of Barberton, state auditor; Edward Lamb of Toledo, attorney general; Bigelow of Cincinnati, and John McSweeney of Wooster, for U. S. senator; Stephen M. Young of Cleveland, congress-at-large, and John H. Garver of Lorain, state senator.

NO 'OPEN HOUSE'

But National Hospital Day Will Be Observed Here.

Mansfield General hospital Sunday will join with other hospitals throughout the country in observing National Hospital day.

Although visitors will be welcome at the hospital, there will be no special "open house" observance, according to Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, superintendent.

Observance of open house, which has been the custom in past years, will be postponed until this summer when the new three-story addition now under construction at the rear of the building, is expected to be ready for occupancy, Dr. Fonkalsrud said.

Persons can visit the hospital Sunday during the regular visiting hours from 2 to 4 p. m. and from 7 to 8.
